Surprises colleagues, audience

Huron Twp. treasurer resigns

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

In a move which caught most of his colleagues on the township board and members of the audience by surprise, Huron Twp. Treas. Richard Sullivan last week announced his resignation.

The board voted 5-0 to give him time off to reconsider.

Acknowledged by many in the township as "the most intelligent person on the board" and topflight professional in his field, Sullivan has served in the treasurer's office for the last four and a half years.

Coming towards the end of Wednesday's regular township board meeting, the resignation was read by the treasurer, who then immediately left the building.

Sullivan's resignation came on the heels of another notice of employee departure, that of his deputy, Karen Nichols, who announced she was leaving township employ effective Oct. 31, 1979. The treasurer gave Nov. 1, 1979, as his last day of employment.

In his prepared statement, Sullivan said he was allowing time for an orderly transition and had arranged for an audit of his office to assure township residents that there were no discrepancies in the operation of his office.

Following Sullivan's announcement and departure, two members of the audience arose to speak in his behalf and asked that action be taken by the board to convince the treasurer to stay.

Harvey Carey said he had "great respect" for Sullivan, who he declared was doing a better job than most people realize. He criticized some on the board for "harrasing" the treasurer. However, he did not name anyone.

Carey called on the unnamed board members to go to Sullivan and apologize and called on the entire board to ask him to stay on as treasurer.

Ron Tabor, former township trustee, said that he had not always agreed with Sullivan when he first worked with him, both an elected official and a township employee.

"But, later I found him to be an honest and sincere man. He worked 150 percent for the township. I hope something can be worked out to keep him," Tabor said.

Trustee A. J. Haener, who chaired the meeting in the absence of Sup. Roy Raker, concurred with the suggestion of Trustee William Geierman that Sullivan take a three-week vacation and then reconsider his resignation.

Trustee John Puskar commented, "If I had to vote on it now, I would have to vote not to receive his resignation." He, too, felt that trustees who offended Sullivan should apologize.

Clerk Mary Lou Carey's first inclination was to table the matter until Raker returned.

At Haener's urging that action should be taken that night, the board, with Fred Ashby also absent, voted 5-0 to grant the treasurer time off to review his decision to quit.

Miss Nichols, who next January would have been working for the township two years, was hired by the township board for general office duties during tax collection time when the work load is heavy.

After that time was past, Sullivan hired her as his deputy and became her immediate superior. Prior to that time, Miss Nichols had been under the supervision of Mrs. Carey, whose responsibility it was to keep girls in the general office assigned to specific tasks.

The clerk and treasurer, who for years worked closely together and who campaigned for office together, reportedly had had their differences over Miss Nichols lack of enthusiasm in helping out in the general office after she became deputy treasurer.

Sullivan reportedly had his differences with others on the board, but none, including those with the clerk, were believed to be serious enough to warrant his sudden resignation.

In the opinion of a source at township hall who did not wish to be identified, Sullivan, 66, was "being led around by the nose" by his deputy, who is 23.

Senior high-rise to rise

Rips state, county

Clerk mad at paper forms

Miffed at the continued insistence of the state and Wayne County to fill out more and more paper forms, Huron Twp. Clerk Mary Lou Carey has said "no" to the latest request.

The "straw that broke the camel's back" is State Tax Commission form L-4029, new this year, which the state agency asked the clerk to fill out and enclose with County Apportionment Report L-4402.

Angry at the extra burden being put on her shoulders, Mrs. Carey sent a blistering letter of refusal to Sen. Jame DeSana of the 11th Senatorial District, with copies to the State Tax Commission, Wayne County Bureau of Taxation and all township clerks in Wayne County.

Stating that she felt she had served Huron Township residents well over the years, the clerk said in her letter, "It seems that there is always some bureaucracy demanding that some form or the other be filled out and it is getting to be a real pain to me!"

"The attached forms are a typical example. They were sent to the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation from the State Tax Commission and then forwarded to my office."

"This may seem to you to be an ordinary case of seeking information from the local officials, but to me it is a lot of buckpassing and I refuse to be a part of it!"

The clerk further said state bureaucracies have the money and staff to fill out "these silly questionnaires, but that she did not. Further, she stated, she believed all of the information requested in STC form L-4029 "is on file in both of these other offices and with a little initiative, they could look it up."

Adding that Huron Township does not have the funds to hire additional staff members for these extra duties, the clerk declared, "Nowhere in the statute does it say that I must fill out STC form L-4029 and therefore, until the state of Michigan or the county of Wayne agrees to reimburse my expenses for this operation, I refuse to do it."

Nine days later, a letter to Mrs. Carey from Sen. DeSana thanked her for her letter, stating, "I can understand your reasoning for objecting to the submitting of the above-mentioned form, and I appreciate your relaying your feelings to me."

As the matter now stands, the clerk is sticking to her guns and STC form L-4029 will remain blank as far as she is concerned.

3 Cases near end

Police slow crime in Meadows area

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

With three cases drawing to a close in court - an armed robbery, a house break-in and the arson of a residence - Wayne County Sheriff's deputies slowly but surely are putting the brakes on the perennial crime problem in and around the Meadows Subdivision area of Romulus.

Billy Ray Flannery, 44, of Ecorse, an escaped convict serving time for kidnapping, will go on trial soon in Wayne County Circuit Court for the armed robbery of a Quick-Pick party store, 30795 Eureka Rd., on May 28 of this year.

Det. Ed Lindberg, who with Det. Robert Pond, is working on all three cases, said Flannery had his confinement restrictions reduced from no bond to $50,000. However, Flannery could not make bond and is lodged in the Wayne County Jail, he said.

Flannery was arrested Aug. 8 in the act of robbing a Southgate party store. Following an investigation, he was picked out of a lineup by witnesses to the holdup in Romulus.

Lindberg said an accomplice of Flannery's, Timmy Ray McCuiston, 21, was located living with his father in Murray, Ky. and arrested by authorities there. McCuiston waived extradition and is now in the Wayne County Jail, where he was remanded after failing to make $50,000 bond following examination in Romulus 34th District Court.

McCuiston also was identified by eyewitnesses to the Quick-Pick party store robbery. They told Lindberg and Pond they remembered McCuiston telling them to lay on the floor, then being kicked in the sides and walked on by the two robbers as they went across the room.

McCuiston is scheduled to appear on Oct. 23 in Wayne County Circuit Court, Lindberg said.

Roger B. McKenzie, 19, of Romulus, pleaded guilty to the entering but not breaking into of a residence at 16366 Middlebelt Rd. on or about Aug. 3, of this year. Lindberg said he originally had been charged with the breaking and entering of the house only a block from where he lived, but that the prosecutor's office had allowed him to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Entering without breaking carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, while breaking and entering calls for a maximum of 15 years imprisonment, he said.

McKenzie will be sentenced Oct. 23, 1979 in the court of Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard Dunn. He is currently free on $1,000 bond.

A second man sought in the same case, John Dale Pingille Jr., 20, also of Romulus, was arraigned last week in 34th District Court and was released on $2,500 bond, pending his examination Wednesday (today) Oct. 27, 1979, also in the same court, Lindberg said.

The officer reported that McKenzie was selling stolen merchandise from a field in the back of the ransacked house, but that police had been successful in recovering many items.

"As a result of the arrests of these two men, we anticipate the arrests of several more persons in unrelated cases in the Meadows Subdivision area," the detective commented.

In the third case, that involving arson of a house at 16110 Farnum, Romulus, owned by Clyde Miller, Kenneth Raymond Lowe, 17, was arraigned last week in 34th District Court on a charge of arson.

A warrant has been issued for a second man believed to have been involved in the arson case, Floyd Everett Dunaway, 18, who with Lowe lives in the same neighborhood where the burned house is located, is being sought on a warrant, Lindberg said.

Although Lowe appeared for his arraignment Wednesday, Dunaway failed to show up, the detective said. After their original arrest, both men had been released to appear in court last week.

If convicted on the arson charge, both men could face up to 20 years in prison.

Miller's home was burned shortly after midnight July 19, 1979 and was heavily damaged in the ensuing blaze, according to Lindberg.

Both Lindberg and Pond said the public has been quite helpful in aiding their investigations after reading about crime cases in the Roman.

City hall ransacked

Four offices at Romulus City Hall were broken into after midnight Thursday, resulting in the theft of several thousand dollars in camera equipment, tape recorders, radios and tapes of this year's council sessions.

The theft was discovered by Harold Ries, a janitor at city hall, according to detectives Robert Pond and Ed Lindberg of the Wayne County Sheriff's Dept.

On Wednesday night a week before, a radio also was reported stolen from city hall, Lindberg said.

The officers investigation showed entry had been made in Thursday night's thefts in the office of Jay Young, public information officer; treasurer's office, accounting office, and water department. Even a gumball machine had been broken into, the officers said.

They said they believe they know who is responsible for the thefts, but would not divulge details of the case at this time.

No boating until May 1

Belleville Lake lowering set

The 18 feet lowering of Belleville Lake will begin next Sunday and Van Buren Township officials have banned boating on the popular body of water as one of several measures to be followed until the project is completed next May 1.

Primary reason for the gradual lowering is to allow repairs to be made to concrete portions of the old French Landing Dam which holds back lake waters from downstream areas of the Huron River. The dam is being renovated under federal grants and will begin producing electrical power in about three years.

Notices are being sent by the township board to every residence in Van Buren to inform citizens of the lake lowering time schedule and ways in which they can cooperate to make the overall project easier for everyone concerned.

The lake's normal summer elevation of 650 feet above sea level will be dropped to 646 feet Nov. 1, to 642 feet Nov. 15, and then to 632 feet, the stopping off place, Dec. 1.

With the average depth reported at 16-17 feet, a substantial portion of the lake will be exposed, will dry out and become hard during the winter months.

The board's notice informed residents that deputies from the Wayne County Sheriff's Dept. will be patrolling the lake daily starting next Sunday to enforce the boating ban and other restrictions.

Cooperation of township residents is being requested by the township board in two areas: to report any item found or seen in the lake bed that could potentially have been involved in a crime to the sheriff's office at 721-2222; to report any sewer lines emptying into the lake from any type of dwelling to township authorities at 699-2006.

Lake front property owners are advised that a permit from the state Dept. of Natural Resources is needed for any of the following:

construction or major reconstruction work, dredging, filling, or removal of any stumps within the normal summer water level.

The permits must be obtained prior to start of any of the above. Residents are asked to call the township hall at 699-2006 for additional information.

Clubs, organizations, businesses, and residents, who wish to help clean up the lake bottom, are asked to call Wayne Lybeck or Fred Campbell, who jointly are heading the cleanup campaign.

The notice to township residents also said that a lake debris pickup schedule will be announced at a later date. However, lake shore residents can put lake debris out for pickup on regular days.

Residents of the township having questions or who encounter problems with property damage during the lake lowering may call the special 24-hour dam hotline at 699-2006.

Woman is charged in stabbing death

A Romulus woman was charged with second degree murder in the stabbing death of her boyfriend last Friday morning in her apartment.

Arraigned on the murder charge Saturday morning in the Out-county prosecutor's court in westland was Ethel Jane Williams, 31, of Apt. 558, 9500 Biddle St., Romulus.

Det. Robert Pond of the Wayne County Sheriff's Dept. said Miss Williams is accused of killing Charles Moss, 38, of Detroit, by stabbing him in the chest during an argument. He said Moss' pulmonary artery was severed, resulting in almost instant death.

Miss Williams was lodged in the Wayne County Jail after failing to post $50,000 bond assessed by District Judge Duane Dunick of Dearborn Heights.

Pond said his investigation disclosed that Moss and Miss Williams had been arguing Thursday night and early Friday morning. When he attempted to stop her from leaving the apartment, she pulled a large pocket knife on him, the detective said.

As Moss tried to defend himself by holding a chair in front of him, Miss Williams reached over the chair and stabbed him, Pond said.

Police were called by a neighbor down the hall who said she was screaming for help.

Trash power

Sanitation authority eyes energy conversion plan

There are 160,000 tons of garbage going up in smoke every year, and the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority wants to convert it into energy. Electricity, to be exact.

The authority consists of members Westland, Wayne, Inkster, Dearborn Heights and Garden City. It burns the garbage collected in those cities, charging each city a fee by the ton for the disposal. It also handles rubbish from the City of Taylor, which has a contract with the authority.

The Department of Energy has awarded the authority a federal grant to explore the feasibility and to plan the engineering for converting the plant to an energy producing facility. Using the energy created from burning the rubbish to create steam, the plan is to generate electricity, according to William Engle, chairman of the authority and Westland's representative.

The authority got the first "installment" of the federal grant, $300,000, about six months ago. A second sum, $465,000 was just released, and there could be more coming, Engle said. The authority had applied for $1.2 million.

The project is funded under the concept of "resource recovery." Garbage is a resource that can be recycled to make energy, recovering energy from the once-discarded material.

The incinerator receives 160,000 tons of garbage a year to dispose of. But, Engle said, "a ton of garbage produces half as much heat energy as a ton of coal, so in effect we're burning the equivalent of 80,000 tons of coal a year and receiving nothing from it."

The energy is "going out the chimney."

The fact that it is going out the chimney has put the authority at odds with the Wayne County Air Pollution Department for several years, and the disagreement still is going on. Wayne County says the authority is violating its standards for pollution.

It will cost $6 million to install new air pollution equipment at the incinerator to satisfy Wayne County, Engle said. The deadline that the county has given them is 1981, he added.

Engle said that the authority wants to sell $6 million worth of revenue bonds to pay for those improvements. He recently reported this plan to the Westland City Council, and said he will be coming to the council to ask permission for the bonding before the end of the year.

The councils of each of the five member communities would have to approve the bond issue before it can be done.

Then, to pay off the bonds, the authority will have to raise the rates it charges to its member communities. Westland now pays $15.14 per ton to the authority for disposal. That amount would have to be increased by about $3.50 per ton, $140,000 per year, to pay off the bonds for new air pollution equipment, Engle estimated.

That issue about air pollution is separate from the resource recovery project, and closer at hand.

The resource recovery project — converting garbage into energy — still is in early planning stages. The federal grant is only paying for feasibility studies and engineering work. The ultimate plan will entail remodeling the entire plant, Engle noted. Steam generators and other equipment would have to be installed to make the changeover. Engle estimated the cost at $10 million to renovate the plant for the resource recovery, an undertaking that will come after the new air pollution devices required by Wayne County are installed.

But paying for the resource recovery equipment will not necessitate a rate hike to the cities. Those costs can be paid by revenues produced from the electricity itself.

First of all, the electricity would be used to operate the incinerator plant itself.

"Our electric bill is $20,000 a month now," Engle noted.

Then, the authority would sell the electricity remaining to Detroit Edison at the current rate. Engle said he already has a letter from Edison saying they want to buy the electricity when the time comes.

Engineering work for the project is being done by two engineering firms, Havens and Emerson of New York, and Commonwealth and Associates of Pennsylvania, Engle said. They are experts in heat recovery and incinerator work.

The incinerator operated by the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority is located on Inkster and Annapolis roads in Inkster. It's been in operation for 15 years.

Re-organize county

Petition Drive hits 35,000

Last weekend's summery weather was expected to contribute favorably to a 2-day petition drive by Wayne County's League of Women Voters seeking additional signatures to place the question of an elected county executive on next year's primary ballot, according to Wayne County Commissioner Mary E. Dumas of Livonia.

Commissioners Dumas, Alex Pilch of Dearborn and William Joyner of Plymouth are spearheading the drive—PACE (Provide A County Executive)—in an effort to hurry along the process of obtaining a county executive through direct election rather than through the actions of a Charter Commission.

PACE Chairman Robert Beeny of Wayne said 35,000 of the necessary 66,000 signatures already have been collected but the group will tug for 77,000 by a target date of Nov. 30.

According to Betty Cook, chairperson of the County Committee of the Wayne County League of Women Voters, members of that organization were out circulating petitions Oct. 5 and 6, in shopping centers of Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Allen Park, Northville, Grosse Pointe and Plymouth in a major effort to reach the petition goal.

It is the feeling of the three Commissioners that an elected county executive—as required in Gov. William Milliken's plans for county reform—is too important issue to allow it to wait until the formal creation of a Charter Commission with the added possibility that the commission might recommend a county manager, or create a weak form of executive.

Commissioner Dumas said: "Not only will it take less time to proceed under PA 139—a maximum of 270 days as opposed to two years under a charter proposal—but it will be far less expensive. Electing a Charter Commission will cost taxpayers more than $1.5 million while a direct election for a county executive will cost about half."

"I'm rather disappointed that the Governor's task force did not go far enough in amending PA 293, which has basically left it with a county executive, and did not address the problems of having five or more county-wide elected offices. PA 139 spells out the powers and duties of a county executive, while the balance of the act is nearly identical to PA 239, which I feel is not adequate."

"There needs to be some single executive who has administrative powers and who is directly responsible by election to voters of Wayne County. Such an executive can more adequately address the needs of the entire county and will have a higher political visibility for obtaining needed legislation for funding county programs."

She added: "He would also be able to deal more effectively with county personnel matters and maintain administrative control over departmental operations."

"If there is to be any effective reorganization of Wayne County government," Commissioner Pilch explained, "it appears that it will have to be forced by the people. The jockeying around Lansing offers little hope of anything meaningful being accomplished there. The so-called compromise by the Joint Task Force is Act 1 of a pretentious charade. The wrong departments are targets for abolition."

"The solution to this entire matter is to have the people by-pass the Board of Commissioners, the legislature and the governor and call for an election of a county executive with the power and authority to knock heads, make changes, economize and serve the people more effectively."

Redman directs new mutual aid group

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

"Where there's a will, there's a way!"

Following that old adage paid off for Henry Redman, who succeeded in obtaining two grants totaling $71,000 to set up the Western Five.

What is Western Five? It is a consortium, or merger of five area communities, into one organization, whose goal is to resolve mutual problems and save money for all concerned along the way.

Making up Western Five are the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron and the cities of Belleville and Romulus.

Serving as chairman of the new organization, which opened its doors Sept. 3 in offices rented at the Van Buren Township Hall, is Pat Cullin, Van Buren Township supervisor. Elected vice-chairman is Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson, with Huron Township Supervisor Roy Raker as secretary-treasurer, and Sumpter Township Supervisor Robert K. Demski and Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley named to the board of directors.

"Our goal, hopefully, will be to solve some of the common problems shared by some or all of the members of Western Five," Redman said.

He hopes to accomplish savings for members through such practices as obtaining large federal grants to meet mutual needs, fleet purchases of vehicles, and buying large insurance policies at reduced rates for employees of all five communities.

"Western Five also will be working to get the best deal for cable TV in this area. Five communities working together should be able to receive more services for less money, if they stick together," he added.

Redman also emphasized that the new organization will be working with the 312 program that loans money at low interest to businessmen for plant and building improvements.

Although he has heard of a similar organization being put together in Livonia, the only actual other group like Western Five is the Downriver Community Conference in Wyandotte. Out of Michigan, he knows of only one consortium, and that is in Illinois.

As now set up, supervisors, mayors and other elected officials will meet with Redman to let him know of their needs. When some or all of the needs or services requested are close enough to be lumped together, Redman will go to work through Western Five to see if he can resolve them.

As township manager for 4½ years in Sumpter Township, Redman was the right hand man for Sup. Demski. He was instrumental in securing some $7 million in grants for the township, $6 million of which was for badly-needed water line extensions.

Redman also got grants for a new township hall and fire station, and a grant from the State Department of Natural Resources for an 80-acre park site in Sumpter.

In addition to his duties in Sumpter as township manager, Redman served as water superintendent, grants administrator, grants coordinator and tax assessor, and was in charge of the CETA program.

Prior to coming to Sumpter, he was supervisor of Brownstown Township for four years and a township trustee for four years before that. He also served as chairman of the planning commission, chairman of the board of appeals and chairman of the zoning board.

"The $71,000 in grants will enable us to operate for one year with no expense to the five members. If we prove to be successful, it is my hope that will be able to expand our staff and our functions to better meet the needs of our five member communities," Redman said.

The happily-married father of six children, four at home, Redman graduated from Western High School in Detroit and attended Wayne State University. Prior to selling insurance for nine years, he took extension courses at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan to secure his insurance casualty license and his real estate license.

In addition to coaching girls' and boys' baseball and boys' hockey teams, he also collects stamps, hunts and bowls.

Redman said the Western Five will hold public meetings at 3:30 p.m. on the third Thursday of the month at the Van Buren Township Hall.

In brief

Petraska dinner set

Tickets are still on sale for the testimonial dinner for Vira D. Petraska, assistant manager of the Romulus branch of the Manufacturers Bank of Detroit, which will be held the night of Oct. 30, 1979 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wayne, 35100 Van Borne Road.

Miss Petraska will retire effective Nov. 30 after 44 years of service.

Priced at $12.50 each, the tickets will include dinner and an open bar. For additional information, call Eleanor Miller or Debbie Block at 941-0600 before Oct. 17.

Halloween party slated

A Halloween party for pre-school through eighth grade pupils will be held Oct. 31 at 6:30 p.m. at Renton Jr. High School, Huron River Drive and Merriman Road. All children must be in costume to attend.

Sponsoring the party is the newly-formed Huron Recreation Committee, a group of parents named by the township board to plan activities for various age groups in Huron.

CPR classes offered

You're shopping at a grocery store when the man at the checkout counter gasps, clutches his chest and falls to the floor. He begins to turn blue and his breathing ceases. Would you know what to do?

If you've taken a Red Cross cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) course, you could save his life.

The Van Buren-Belleville Jaycee's along with Van Buren Parks and Recreation Department, are sponsoring a CPR course starting Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1979 from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. at Van Buren Township Hall. This course will be completed in two sessions, with a CPR certificate issued after successful completion.

CPR provides artificial circulation and breathing to a person whose heart and lungs have stopped functioning because of a heart attack, shock, drowning, or other causes. External cardiac compressions with mouth to mouth resuscitation stimulate the natural functions of heart and lungs and can save a life.

No pre-registration is required. Questions can be answered by contacting Van Buren Parks and Recreation Department at 699-2001.

Pancake festival set

This Saturday, Oct. 20, the Kiwanis Club of Romulus will present its fall pancake festival at the Romulus Progressive Club on Ozga Road north of Huron River Drive in Romulus. Adults will be charged $2.50 and children (five to twelve) $1.50 for all the flapjacks they can eat.

Proceeds will be applied to the many charitable causes to which the club lends support and aid.

K of C plans treat

Father Victor J. Renaud Council, Knights of Columbus in Plymouth, is presenting its second annual Halloween treat for everyone to enjoy.

Four nights of weird sounds, music and alien creatures will be presented Oct. 26, 27, 29, at the Council Hall at 150 Fair St. in Plymouth (between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail, west of Lilley Road).

Doors will open at 7 p.m. and close at the stroke of midnight.

Apple cider will be available to moisten your dry throat and bring back your heart beat, along with donuts to fortify your nervous stomach. Our beautiful vampire will be present to check your blood pressure should you get weak.

So come along, alone if you dare, or bring a friend, family and the whole gang for support.

Your favorite ghost and goblin await you at the door to accept your donation of $1 per person.

Confusion over new trash pickup in Huron is clarified

Confusion still exists over Huron Township's newly-adopted policy of charging for twice monthly trash pickups.

Clerk Mary Lou Carey is unhappy over what she calls "apathy" of township residents on matters affecting them.

"They ought to come down to township meetings to see what's going on," the clerk declared. Last week during the township board's meeting, several inquiries from the audience centered upon the $6.50 per quarter now being charged township residents for trash pickups 26 times a year.

The township board last Sept. 1 passed an ordinance levying the trash pickup charges because the township does not have the funds to pay for the service.

"The one mill we levy for general township operation brings in $56,000 a year for everything. Our trash pickup costs us $60,000 a year. So, where will the extra money come from?" asked the clerk.

She explained that the previous administration had signed a contract for trash removal with Canejo Trucking of Romulus and that the township was obligated to fulfill its terms.

She explained that the contract "was a good one" and one that was necessary.

Asked by two members of the audience if they were committed to pay if they didn't want the trash pickup or else did not have enough trash to warrant a pickup, the clerk said the township was billed under terms of the contract at a fixed price for each dwelling in the township.

She said the charge of $26 amounted to a dollar for each of the 26 pickups annually. She stressed that the charge was reasonable in view of the $60,000 yearly cost today when the same service cost only $3,450 a year back in 1955.

Air cargo facility opens

British Airways, an airline company of the British government, recently opened a large air cargo facility at 29265 Airport Drive, east from Middlebelt Road and south of Wick Road in Romulus. The 15,000-square foot building houses the latest in roller systems to handle import and export air freight being unloaded from trucks and onto airplanes. An electronic digital readout keeps track of freight inventory accurately and rapidly. The new Romulus air cargo facility called a gateway is one of nine operated in metropolitan areas of the United States by British Airways. — ANP photo.

discovered on lake side of dam by divers. Dam is being renovated under $3.6 million in federal grants, with the Ann Arbor firm performing the work. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

Lottery center opens

Greenbriar Party Store on Goddard Street in downtown Romulus has been designated as a lottery claim center for the state of Michigan, according to Chet Asbury, owner. He said his center is the only independent one in western Wayne County, the non-independent ones being located in A & P grocery stores, Hudson's Department stores and Meijer's Thrifty Acres stores. Asbury asked for his store to be named area lottery claim center because he said the closest place for his walk-in trade to go was Belleville, which he felt was too far to go. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

Choate certified

Linda Choate (seated at left), deputy clerk for city of Romulus, is shown with three classmates and professor at Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y., where she recently completed the third and last year of course certification for professional clerks. Mrs. Choate also attended the 11th annual Institute for Professional Clerks last

U.S. savings decline

The American people, who once believed "it pays to save for a rainy day," apparently have changed their minds. The U.S. rate of personal savings has reached an all-time low — with consequences that could be negative in terms of productivity and living standards.

"U.S. citizens once saved as much as anybody else," said economist Percy L. Greaves, author of "Understanding the Dollar Crisis." "but now are saving less of their after-tax earnings than citizens of other leading industrial countries — Canada, Britain, West Germany, France and Japan. And the disparity is growing every year."

Over the last decade for which figures are available, the U.S. savings rate has gone down from 7.5 percent of after-tax income to only 5.1 percent while the Japanese rate has risen from 18.5 percent to 21.5 percent.

RATE OF SAVING (as % of consumer after-tax income)

UNITED STATES	5.1	7.5
CANADA	9.6	6.2
WEST GERMANY	14.0	11.3
FRANCE	16.1	15.9
JAPAN	21.5	18.5

Professor Greaves and other economists point out that a country's rate of savings directly affects productivity, and in turn living standard, and that the decline in U.S. savings will mean that fewer Americans will be able to afford the necessities of life, such as a decent home, in the 1980s.

"As savings go down, so does investment in industry — in the tools of production that increase productivity, and allow workers to produce more goods per hour with the same or even less effort," Greaves explained.

The more money people put in their savings accounts, the more banks have to invest in industry, which uses it to buy productivity-increasing machinery. And before an individual can become a direct investor — buy stocks and bonds himself — he has to have saved money as a personal reserve.

The U.S. decline in savings is reflected in capital spending. Last year capital investment amounted to 17 percent of America's gross national product, while the comparable rate was 19 percent in Great Britain, 21 percent in West Germany, 23 percent in France and Canada, 30 percent in Japan.

"To boost our living standards in the 1980s," said economist Arthur B. Laffer of the University of Southern California, "our government must restore the incentives to work, save and invest. Only then will people produce more, and have more, of the good things of life."

As of Nov. 1

First Step to go 'on call'

Things are happening at First Step, the Westland-based non-profit agency that aids victims of domestic assault.

According to Deborah Benjamin, director, on Nov. 1 the project will be "on call" 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

In the past, the agency could take calls only during certain daytime and evening hours, when the staff workers were at the center, located in the Westland Community Center on Dorsey Road in Westland. But the agency has now arranged to have trained crisis workers answer calls, at 595-1111, day and night.

The person who answers the phone will "assess" the call, provide what crisis telephone help they can, then call in a First Step worker who could come out and meet the woman in crisis.

The calls will actually be taken by an existing 24-hour crisis program, Ms. Benjamin said, and the First Step calls will be forwarded to that line by the telephone company's call-forward system.

First Step has been working towards this 24-hour-a-day service since it began, first having only daytime hours, then adding night hours, and soon this continual availability to women who are victims of spouse abuse.

The project is also currently looking for volunteers willing to donate at least four hours a week for the next six months.

Persons who donate their time will assist in telephone crisis counseling, emergency transportation, clerical assistance and will work on the newsletter.

Ms. Benjamin asked that volunteers be willing to make a time commitment of at least six months, and four hours per week, since they will be specially trained in spouse abuse, empathy training, crisis counseling, and legal and social service advocacy.

Interested persons can arrange an interview by telephoning Corrine at the First Step Center, located on Dorsey Road in Westland, at 595-1112.

First Step assists battered women and their families with crisis counseling, as well as on-going individual and family counseling, assailant counseling, emergency shelter and transportation, legal advocacy, financial assistance, and aid in dealing with court and police agencies.

It is a non-profit agency funded by state and federal grants, plus grants from the cities of Westland and Taylor and from Plymouth Township, and from private donations.

Grand Opening set

Downriver Human Services Director Louise Comey, proudly shows off the center's new sign which announces to the world the arrival of the comprehensive facility designed to get answers to people who have questions. Located in the former Hand Elementary School in Brownstown Township, the Center provides a multi-service capability for people in Western Wayne County.

First in area

Human Service Center opens Thursday

A special multi-service center offering a variety of social programs to thousands of Downriver residents will have its official dedication and opening on Thursday, October 18, at 4:30 p.m.

Regarded as the first such center in the area, the new Downriver Human Service Center resulted from combined public and voluntary efforts to bring an integrated package of needed services to Downriver communities.

It is housed in the former Hand Elementary School in Brownstown Township, 19101 Inkster Road, corner of Sibley Road.

The one-story brick building with 13,000 square footage of space, located on two acres of land, was renovated to provide different services, all under one roof, to help families, youth and retirees.

The idea of the center was first initiated by United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit (UCS) after a UCS study revealed that few services were accessible to people of Wayne County's southwestern communities.

The funds needed to purchase and renovate the Hand School came from the United Foundation Capital Fund Division ($335,000), Wayne County Block Grant program ($110,000), and Wayne County Office of Manpower CETA Program ($34,844).

Among agencies offering counseling, educational, recreational and community group services are:

Catholic Social Services of Wayne County; Downriver Community Conference Senior Center, Chore and Homemaker Services for Seniors; Downriver YMCA; Downriver YWCA; Family & Neighborhood Services for Wayne County (Building & Program Administration) and Resource Development Center for the Developmentally Disabled; Out-Wayne County Nutritional Program for Senior Citizens; Out-Wayne County Youth Services Coalition, Inc. (Administration, Community Education, and Home Attention Program); Wayne County Office of Manpower; Well Being Services to the Aging.

A core or central staff, auxiliary to the participating agency staff will offer clients assistance in finding appropriate services to meet their needs.

A planning committee organized by UCS and composed of local community persons and now a community advisory council representative of the participating agencies, residents and local governments works with center Director, Louise Comey, in the operation of the facility.

Participants in the 4:30 p.m. ceremony include officials of United Foundation, United Community Service of Metropolitan Detroit and the Wayne Division.

Downriver Community Conference, Wayne County Block Grant Program, Wayne County Commissioners, the Human Service Center Advisory Council and the local community.

Persons needing additional information can call 782-0600.

Realtors predict slower sales following increasing rates

New increases in home mortgage interest rates will have a 2-sided affect on the resale home market, according to the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

"The jump in interest rates past 12 percent for loans with a 20 percent down payment and the uncertainty about the general economy will force an increased number of prospective buyers out of the market," said John Cole, WWOCBR president. "We look for sales to continue to taper off until about March when seasonal demand will focus increased attention on home buying. By that time, we also hope a build-up in funds available for mortgage loans will cause interest rates to begin edging down."

"The demand for housing remains very high and, once the shock of the interest rate increases has been overcome, prospective buyers will begin to examine their options," he added. "Some will discover that the income tax deduction for interest paid plus the build-up of equity still makes a home an attractive investment despite the high rates."

"Others will turn to the lower rate FHA and VA loans or try to buy through a land contract, which also offers a more favorable rate."

Cole said there still are some homes being marketed with lower rate existing mortgages that can be assumed. Competition for such homes will be strong and their market value will remain high, he said.

"For some buyers, particularly people transferring into the area, there isn't really any alternative to buying regardless of the existing rate," the WWOCBR president said. "If there is any significant drop in interest rates in the future, such buyers can be expected to refinance their home purchases."

"From the seller's point of view, the depressed market and an expected growth in available listing may mean a downward adjustment in asking prices. We already have begun to see this in the outlying areas where prices for homes in the $60,000 and up range have been lowered as much as 10 to 12 percent."

"With the increased competition for buyers, sellers also can expect their homes to stay on the market longer. It's certain that real estate members and other realtors will be striving even harder to find and quality buyers."

Cole said a rise in unemployment also may place more listings on the market. He noted that many homes in recent years have been bought with the combined incomes of two wage earners.

"If one or both are laid off from their jobs, they may be unable to meet their payments and will be forced into selling their homes," he said.

However, he urged homeowners in such situations to discuss the problem with their lender first to see if some other remedy can be found.

"Buyers now are in an unusual position," Cole stated. "They can expect to get more house for their money than they could previously. But at the same time, they'll find a tighter money market with record interest rates."

Metroparks best color

The brilliant streaks of autumn color are gradually moving across southeastern Michigan and into the Huron-Clinton metroparks, which serve citizens living in Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

The best color is expected through this weekend at these area metroparks:

KENSINGTON METROPARK (4,350 acres) near Milford has easy access from the I-96 Freeway and is one of the most beautiful areas for fall color.

Sumac, Virginia creeper, dogwood and sassafras provide early fall color, followed by aspen, oak and ash, which bring new hues to the hills surrounding Kent and Wildwing lakes. Canada Geese inhabit the lakes and Kingfisher Lagoon, where the geese often seek a "handout" from park visitors.

Several miles of winding park roadway provide a restful, colorful drive through the hilly countryside. Facilities include bike trail, boating and fishing, picnic areas and playgrounds, an 18-hole golf course, with food service at the starter building, nature trails and nature center and boat rental service.

Park hours are 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. For details phone 685-1561 (Milford).

HUDSON MILLS (1,415 acres), DEXTER-HURON (125 acres) and DELHI (45 acres) metroparks, located in Washtenaw County, usually feature excellent color in the fall. These metroparks, from 5 to 12 miles northwest of Ann Arbor, have many scenic vistas along the Huron River. Color often begins early, with red and orange on branches of Flowering Dogwood, Staghorn sumac and Red Maple. Bitternut Hickory and Elm provide early yellow hues and the deep color of Red Oaks and purplish White Oaks are alive with color until late October. The Acorn Nature Trail in Hudson Mills is open daily.

Park hours are 8 a.m. to sunset. For details phone 426-8211 (Dexter).

LOWER HURON METROPARK (1,200 acres) near Belleville offers the changing of colors of sumac, black maple, redbud, pin oak, cottonwood and sassafras. A wide variety of colorful trees make a leisurely drive through Lower Huron Metropark an experience of great visual impact. Both sides of the road are bordered by tall maples, oaks and beeches followed by redbud trees, moraine locusts and green ash which will turn yellow in the fall.

As cars pass over the Huron River, visitors can catch a glimpse of golden leaves of elm and cottonwoods reflected in the water, plus yellow-mantled redbuds and in the fields are goldenrod and wild asters.

Park hours are sunrise to 10 p.m. For details phone 697-9181 (Belleville). The park entrance is along Hannan Road via Haggerty Road exit from the I-94 (Edsel Ford) Freeway.

WILLOW METROPARK (1,525 acres) is located between New Boston and Flat Rock. This new park has picnic areas, 18-hole golf course, a roadway winding throughout the site, playgrounds and tot lot and riverbank fishing. Several small woodlots and hedge rows have a variety of trees and shrubs that are very colorful in late September or early October. The trees and fields provide an excellent habitat for fall flowers and migrating song birds.

Park hours are sunrise to 10 p.m. The park entrance is along Willow Road, about 2 miles east of Waltz Road and about a mile from Huron River Drive on the east.

OAKWOODS METROPARK (1,770 acres) near Flat Rock is primarily devoted to a nature interpretive area, with several nature trails labelled for self-guided hikes and a nature center with several seasonal exhibits. There is much fall color along the 2½ mile road leading to the nature study area. The park entrance is along Willow Road near the junction of Huron River Drive 4 miles northwest of Flat Rock.

For details phone 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

Box Store puts 'lid' on inflation

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

The Box Store, a discount retail grocery operation on Merriman Road just north of Ann Arbor Trail, claims that it can cut consumer food bills by 10 to 30 percent.

A stroll through the store verifies that the prices of canned and boxed goods at the "no frills" store generally are below prices listed at a sampling of other supermarkets in the city — with one notable exception.

The "Great Scott" Supermarket across the street from The Box Store has jumped into competition with the neighboring store with both feet, creating something of a price war in that area.

The benefactors obviously are the consumers who shop at either or both stores.

The discount retail outlet was opened about six weeks ago by The Box Store, Inc., as the corporation's pilot enterprise in an expected series of box stores in the metropolitan Detroit area. President of the firm is Tom Thompson, who said he formerly worked as a vice-president for Borman's Inc., operator of Farmer Jack Supermarket, and has been in the supermarket business for 18 years.

The philosophy of the box store is to eliminate the frills in the store, and with money saved, price items lower than conventional supermarkets. The store has little ornamentation or promotional displays, the food items are arranged in the shipping boxes on the shelves. There is a limited assortment, no meats or produce. Shoppers must bring their own bags or boxes to package their purchases at the two checkout "counters" that are little more than two cashiers behind registers.

There reportedly are more than 400 such stores throughout the country, and it is expected that the merchandising concept will become more and more popular.

They accept no coupons, or checks. Cash and food stamps are the only acceptable payment. And shopping hours are limited to save costs.

Hours at the Westland store beginning this week will be Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. until 7 p.m., Friday 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., and Saturday 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. No Sunday hours.

By cutting the overhead costs, the savings is passed on the customers, Thompson said.

"Inflation is with us, and people simply have to save on their food bills," he said. "I think people are interested in what we are offering, which is an alternative."

"I believe we're going to catch on."

Admittedly, business has been a bit slow so far, as Thompson waits for the concept to catch on, and for people to hear about the store.

Thompson admits that The Box Store is not "one-stop shopping." But he recommends that customers stock up on staples from his store, not only brand names, but high-quality regional brand food at even lower prices. Then the shopper will have to go to a supermarket or meat market for meats, fresh fruit, and vegetables and frozen food.

A hand-made sign in the store tells shoppers: "This is not one-stop shopping, but the savings of 10 to 30 percent makes two trips worth your while."

Thompson believes there is a place for "alternative" stores such as his, just as there is a place for supermarkets, which offer the expanded hours, more variety of foods and such.

The Great Scott Supermarket across the street, however, apparently doesn't feel there is a place for The Box Store.

A price check on about a dozen foods showed that the Great Scott store has matched the lower Box Store prices in an apparent attempt to keep its customers from being lured away.

A Great Scott pricing executive verified the obvious move, saying: "We're not going to sit back and let them take our business away."

It is usual corporate practice to maintain pretty much the same prices at all stores in a city, but in this case, that practice was suspended to deal with the new competitor, he added.

The advertising at the store makes no bones about the reason for its reduced prices. Bright orange stickers dot the store, calling the shoppers' attention to specific name-brand prices. The stickers state: "For full service and full variety ... at box store prices. Why shop anywhere else?"

And it is open 24 hours a day.

Meanwhile, a Great Scott store at Wayne and Cherry Hill roads, also in Westland, has consistently higher prices on the items checked at random against The Box Store and other Great Scott store. The difference averaged to be about 12 percent, between 4 and 27 percent on the items checked.

None of the other three has another grocery store, period, within walking distance of it.

Reporters only priced a small sampling of items, but the trend in lower prices at The Box Store seemed consistent, a few cents on some items, as high as 75 cents on others.

The Great Scott executive said that as a matter of course, prices at the stores are reviewed at least weekly, taking into account the cost of the food (to the supermarket chain) and the competition in the area. He said he couldn't predict future prices.

'No frills'

If you're looking for fancy promotions and elaborate trappings, The Box Store would not be for you. But, if you want low prices, prices that can cut your food bill by 10 to 30 percent, this is the place to be, according to Tom Thompson (right), president of The Box Stores, Inc. He's opened his first store in Westland at Ann Arbor Trail and Merriman. Bring your own bags and select your goods right out of shipping boxes. After cashier Sue Stanoff rings up your order, you'll bag your own groceries, too. In the days of the pinched dollar, Thompson is convinced that this "no frills" concept will be welcome by consumers.—ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Clothing recalled

The Edgewood Chenille Company, a clothing manufacturer in Tunnel Hill, Ga., is recalling thousands of highly flammable women's garments, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has announced.

The garments include women's bathrobes, jackets, shorts and tube tops. All are made of 100 percent cotton chenille, a soft, unribbed fabric with a high, fuzzy nap.

Since December 1978, three women have been burned when their bathrobes caught on fire. One of the women was seriously injured with second and third-degree burns, which covered 25 percent of her body.

In CPSC laboratory tests of the garments conducted since June 1979, 7 of 10 garments failed to pass the federal flammability standard for adult wearing apparel.

The garments have been sold nationwide since 1975 under the "Edgewood" and "Wrappers" labels in department stores and ladies' apparel stores.

The bathrobes are floor-length and long-sleeved, and wrap in front. They have sold at retail prices ranging from $35 to $60.

The jackets are waist-length and long-sleeved. Some are fashioned as "fitted blazers" with notched collars and padded shoulders, and others as pullovers with hoods and elastic waistbands. They have sold for approximately $30 to $35.

The boxer-style shorts also have elastic waistbands, and have sold from $12 to $15. The tube tops are fully elasticized, strapless garments, which have retailed from $10 to $12. Women who own these garments should return them to their retailers to receive a free replacement apparel which complies with the flammability standard. Anyone who requires additional information about this recall should contact the Edgewood Chenille Company, P.O. Box 14, Tunnel Hill, Ga., 30755, or call (404) 935-3121.

'The gift of life' Blood is 'in the bank' for everyone

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

You don't have to belong to any group in order to get blood at a hospital from the American Red Cross, the agency that supplies blood to all hospitals in southeastern Michigan.

There is no "bank" that you must donate to so that you can get blood.

The only criteria for getting blood is that you need it. And the only "reward" for giving blood is that you're doing your bit for the community blood coverage from which you or a loved one may some day need to draw.

Gone is the old system of giving blood through a group to get "credit" toward some future time when you might need blood, according to Gus Rissman, director of blood donor resources for the Southeastern Michigan Regional Blood Center of the American Red Cross.

"Community coverage is based on the principal that blood should be available to all members of the community who need it, regardless of their membership in a 'plan' or past donor history," Rissman explained.

"The concept removes the burden of replacing blood from the user or his (her) family to the community at large."

Although churches, employee groups and clubs still sponsor blood drives, and the amount donated is noted and appreciated by the Red Cross, it does not mean that those people have any more access to blood than anyone else.

Blood drives organized in this way, where mobile units of the American Red Cross go out and visit a site in the community, are still very much encouraged, however, as an important recruitment tool to collect the 1,000 pints of blood needed daily in this area to supply southeastern Michigan hospitals.

"At one point, you had to be a member of a group to get blood, or else you were charged a nonreplacement fee by the hospital," Rissman said. "This system was discontinued July 1, 1978, although even then many hospitals did not charge the replacement fee."

In essence, then, no one is "charged" for blood.

But, Rissman added, there are processing fees that are attached to blood at two points.

First of all, the Red Cross charges hospitals it supplies with a processing fee. The charge varies according to "the product" as Rissman called it (whether it be whole blood, platelets, red blood cells or other components).

The processing fee for a pint of fresh, whole blood is $29.50, he said. The money collected from this fee pays for the paid staff who take blood (registered nurses), equipment and materials used at blood donor centers, shipping, storing and preparing of blood, and breaking it down into components.

The hospital will then charge its administration fee, an amount that varies with each hospital and is not under the control of the Red Cross.

According to the hospital administrator at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, the standard fee for blood processing there is $40 per pint, in addition to the processing fee charged by the Red Cross.

That figure covers costs of handling, storage, equipment used in handling the transfusion, nursing time, record keeping, quality control and matching of blood types.

A spokesperson for Wayne County General Hospital said that processing costs there are broken down into different categories. Typing of the blood costs $21, cross matching to check compatibility is $10, transfusion service charge is $30 and blood processing is $7.

The charge is broken down because many times only part of the work is done. Blood may be typed and cross-checked and put on "stand-by" for an operation, but never used, so the patient would be charged only for the first two steps, and not for transfusion.

Both spokesmen pointed out that handling of blood involves many steps, and cross checking of blood to insure compatibility is crucial, going beyond simply checking that the donated blood is the same type.

Both the Red Cross processing fee and hospital fee are passed on to the patient, and they are usually totally reimbursable by major health insurance companies.

Whole blood can be stored for only 21 days, so the nine blood donor centers and nine mobile units are busy collecting blood all the time. It is needed every day of the year, and collected every day. Rissman noted that platelets, a component of blood, last only 72 hours when taken from the whole blood, so constant collection is essential.

That is why every so often you'll hear a plea for blood through the media, when donations slack off or dry up, for instance, during the holidays.

Often, Type O blood is requested, since it is the most common. Out of 100 persons, 39 will have O positive, and seven will have O negative. Thirty-four will have A positive and six will have A negative. Eight and a half will have B positive and one and a half B negative. Blood type AB is the least common, with three and a half percent of the population having AB positive and less than one percent AB negative.

Donors usually must call to make an appointment to give blood, a process that takes about an hour.

There are the "regulars" who donate twice or more a year (you're eligible to give every eight weeks), the much needed donations from blood drives, and each year about 20 percent of donors are first timers, Rissman said.

And from them, 245,000 pints must come each year.

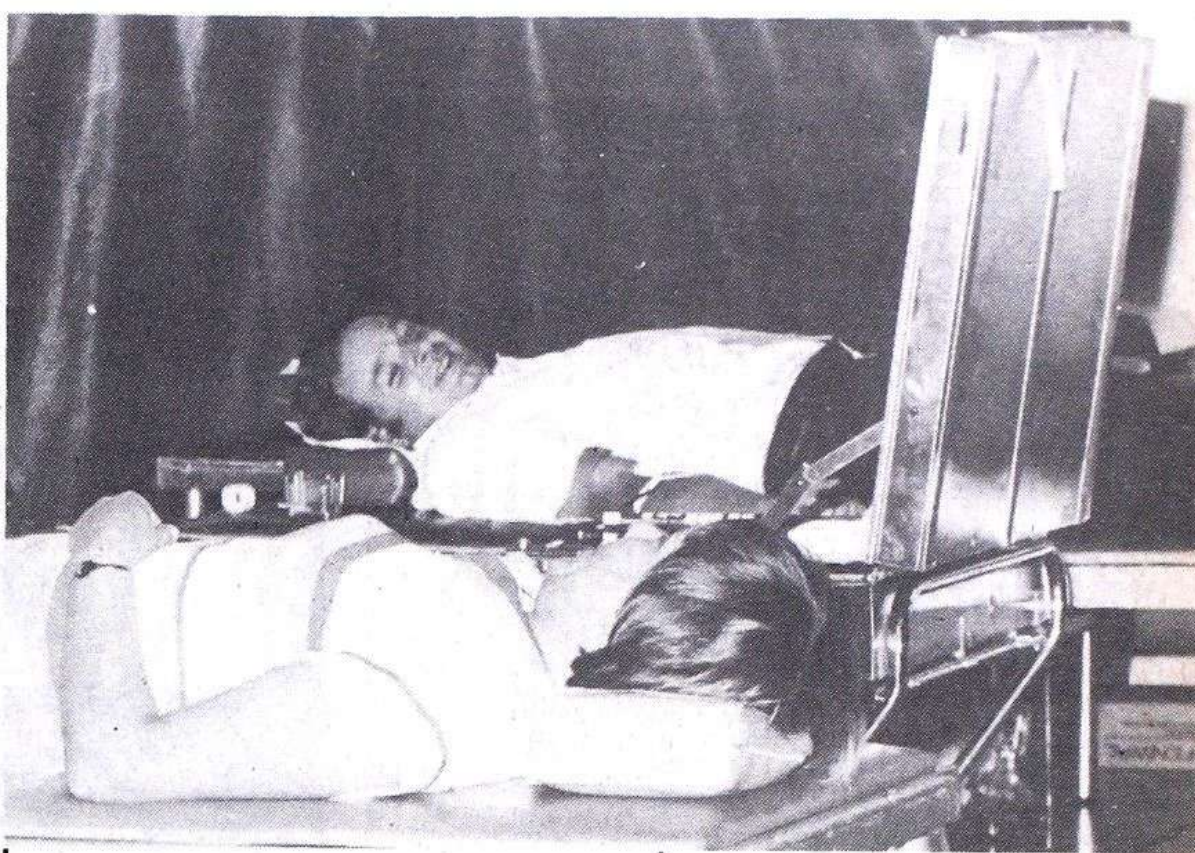

As a rule, you don't donate "for" someone in particular, if, for instance, they are in the hospital awaiting surgery.

The exception is when a person is going to have open heart surgery, for which up to 30 pints of blood is needed. This is an extraordinary draw on the regular blood supply.

The Red Cross keeps a file of persons who have donated, and their type. In the case of open heart surgery, persons with the appropriate blood type are called and asked if they would be willing to donate for that specific operation.

Other than that the incentive to give resembles a "do unto others, etc." philosophy.

If everyone gives, they'll be some there when YOU need it, too.

'The gift of life'

The Red Cross says that giving blood is giving "the gift of life," and Lois and Richard Willis made a family venture of it this week at Westland's St. Matthew Lutheran Church on Venoy. A bloodmobile visited the site Tuesday to accept blood from volunteers in the area.—ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Report your benefits

People who get both worker's compensation payments and Social Security disability benefits should remember to report any changes in their compensation payments to the Social Security Administration.

A change in a person's worker's compensation payment means his or her Social Security disability benefit should also be changed. If the compensation payment decreases, for example, the person's Social Security disability benefit probably should be increased. Conversely, if the compensation increases, the benefit should be reduced.

By promptly reporting changes in worker's compensation payments, a person will avoid missing out on Social Security benefits he or she is entitled to, or having to pay back benefits he or she shouldn't have received. A prompt report will ensure that the person gets the correct Social Security disability benefit.

Under the law, a person's combined worker's compensation payment and Social Security disability benefit cannot exceed 80 percent of his or her highest monthly wage before he or she became disabled.

To meet this limitation, a person's Social Security disability benefit is adjusted whenever the individual's compensation payment changes.

Any part of the compensation payment which is withheld to pay medical or legal expenses is not considered in figuring the amount of the offset in Social Security benefits.

When a person reaches age 62, his or her Social Security disability benefit is no longer offset by the compensation payment. This is because age 62 is considered retirement age for Social Security purposes and, at that time, disability benefits technically become retirement benefits, which are not affected by worker's compensation payments. This administrative change takes place automatically and is indiscernible to the beneficiary. Social Security retirement benefits can be reduced only if a person works and earns more than the annual exempt amount, or gets a government retirement pension.

People with questions about how their worker's compensation payments affect their Social Security disability benefits should get in touch with any Social Security office.

Michigan Bell

If you have children at home, would they know who to call in case of a fire, accident or sudden illness? Be sure you have listed near your phone the numbers of your doctor, hospital, poison control, police, fire department and other emergency numbers. Show your children how to find those numbers, how to dial them (if they don't already know), how to call the operator; let them know if 911 can be dialed for fire, medical or police help in your area. Write down your home address near these numbers, too, so your children or your baby-sitter can give it to people who need to find your home in a hurry. (But, for safety's sake, you should instruct them not to give your address or other information to strangers on the phone.) Your telephone can be a lifesaving help in an emergency. Teach your children how to use it for their protection and yours.

Living with inflation

(Fourth in a series of five articles)

In these inflationary times would it pay us to rent things we need rather than buying them at sky-high prices?

If so, there are places where you can rent, at daily rates, or on lease for a month or more, boats, clothes, recreational vehicles, power tools, sports equipment, musical instruments, cameras, TV sets — just about anything you can name is available somewhere. Railroads even rent freight cars, and airlines some of the planes they use.

But aren't rental rates inflated also, thus nullifying the advantages of renting? What must the ratio of rental fee to purchase price be to make one preferable to the other? Certified Public Accountants, who regularly help business clients make such buy-lease-or-rent decisions, follow a line of reasoning that might help families, too, arrive at sound decisions in this area.

According to The Michigan Association of CPAs, the first step is to determine the relative costs of the three alternatives in terms of what each method will cost per day (or other unit) of expected usage. If an item will be used only one day per year, for example, obviously the daily rental is the best bet. If it's to be used every day of the year, purchasing the item is the only answer. But what do you decide when usage is likely to fall somewhere in between?

A CPA spokesman cites the hypothetical example of an electric typewriter that costs $900, let's say, rents for $7.50 a day, and can be leased for $50 a month. To determine the full cost of ownership it is necessary to add to the $900 purchase price the interest expense — either interest paid on borrowed money or interest income lost — plus such other costs as insurance and maintenance, all of which might bring the total close to $1,200.

Amortized over a life expectancy of eight years, ownership cost is a modest $150 a year, or $12.50 a month, but it must be remembered that this cost would be incurred for the full eight years, regardless of how much the machine is used.

If you use the typewriter no more than six days a year, therefore, your costs will be $45 for daily rentals, which is less than either alternative.

If you use it more than six days, but all within one month, the $50 monthly rate is the best deal.

If usage falls in different months, the daily rate remains preferable until usage reaches 21 days a year, when ownership becomes preferable.

If you lease by the month for more than three months per year, ownership is a better bet.

The CPAs emphasize that the dollars-and-cents alternatives must be considered anew in each instance; there is no universal rule of thumb that can be applied in every case.

"People also have considerations other than cost in making buy-lease-or-rent decisions," the Michigan CPAs warn. "There's the matter of pride of ownership, love of convenience, or the desire to have a new model each year with all the latest improvements, and then there's that very important element, taxes."

"If the product is to be used in one's business or as an investment, the tax considerations can override all the others," the CPAs advise.

NOTE: A final article in this series describes inflation investment practices of industry.

Uncle Sam plugs SEMTA ridership

Uncle Sam has been telling us for quite some time of the need to protect our environment and conserve energy—that saving gas by riding public transportation is a good idea.

Now the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA), is helping Uncle Sam encourage off-peak and weekend transit riding in a big way by using the familiar James Montgomery Flagg "Uncle Sam" recruiting poster to beckon motorists aboard.

"Our ridership has increased 24.5 percent during the first nine months of this year and continues to grow. The increases, however, have been concentrated during the peak hours between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. and 6 p.m.," said SEMTA General Manager Larry E. Salci. "We would like to encourage more riders to use our service during off-peak hours and on weekends," he added.

To encourage additional ridership, SEMTA is offering a special "Buck Passer Weekend." For $1, a passenger can travel an unlimited number of times during the weekend the pass is purchased. The passenger simply gets a pass from the driver on the first ride and deposits a $1. The pass entitles the passenger to ride SEMTA for one weekend as much as he likes, wherever he likes in the Detroit metropolitan area. The pass also can be passed on to a friend or relative.

"The timely displays were created by Metro Transit Advertising (MTA) as a dramatic way to urge use of public transit for conserving fuel," said Salci. "The 35-square foot vinyl poster is installed on the sides of our buses directly over fluting and rivets, giving the appearance of a painted mural," he explained.

"Join those who have already heeded Uncle Sam, and get aboard," Salci encouraged southeastern Michigan residents. "After all, the gas you save may be your own!"

Ford's Pulaski naming nears

A 2-year effort by Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) will achieve partial success this week when the Postal Service issues a postal card honoring General Casimir Pulaski.

The card will be issued at Savannah, Ga., Thursday (Oct. 11), during re-enactment of the Battle of Savannah in 1779, where Pulaski was fatally wounded.

General Pulaski, a native of Poland, came to the United States in the early years of the Revolutionary War, and was commissioned in the American Army on the recommendation of Benjamin Franklin. He became one of George Washington's most trusted commanders.

Congressman Ford and others first introduced legislation two years ago asking the Postal Service to issue a General Pulaski commemorative stamp. Similar legislation was offered again this year by Congressman Ford.

The Postal Service responded last March by agreeing to issue the Pulaski Postal Card on the 200th anniversary of his last battle.

Congressman Ford said he and other co-sponsors intend to press their fight for a full-fledged commemorative stamp, pointing out that General Pulaski is one of the few great Revolutionary heroes who has not been honored with a stamp.

"In the meantime, I am immensely pleased that this great Polish-American hero is being honored with a commemorative postal card," Congressman Ford said.

Karl Rickel, 85: Proud 'Pa' of 18, and Kirk

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

Florence and Karl Rickel only speak in superlatives — "best," "greatest," "flashiest blue eyes" — when describing their 8-year-old son Kirk, who they just enrolled in Cub Scouts last week.

That's not really unique, but what is the fact that Kirk's natural parents are old enough to be his grandparents. Rickel is 85 years old, his wife is 52.

Kirk is the last of 18 children born to Karl and Florence. Both parents had children from previous marriages.

With a sense of pride and satisfaction Karl giggled: "I'm older than my mother-in-law. And my oldest daughter is 62 years old. But she's too old to do anything."

The Rickel family is a prime example of a "triple-tier family," according to Robert Graham, assistant director of the institute of gerontology department at Wayne State University.

"It's not that uncommon anymore," Graham said. "It's when the father has a child of three generations, one in elementary school, one in his 30s and one with the child being in his late 40s or older."

Married in 1957, Florence and Karl had five children — Karl Jr., 22, Alena, 20, Isaac, 18, Bonnie, 16, and then on June 8, 1971, Florence gave birth to Kirk.

"I was 44 years old then. No pain. It was easy," said Florence, "except that Alena was graduating from sixth grade that day and things got a bit confusing."

"They couldn't believe it in the hospital."

She conceded that before she learned she was pregnant with Kirk that she was looking forward to a leisurely retirement, the kids being of high school age and older.

"But then here came another one," she said.

Now days it is not uncommon for Karl to be seen hunched over a bicycle repairing the peddles or chasing after his lot when they become unruly.

Only last year, he and Florence had to deal with the situation of Kirk breaking his leg as a result of an auto accident. Kirk was riding a bike with two others when the three collided with a vehicle.

"It's a lot of work," said Florence, who was quick to note that Kirk will be their last child.

Kirk is the baby of the family and will remain that, she insisted.

Florence, at the time of Kirk's birth, underwent a hysterectomy (removal of the uterus) to prevent her from bearing children.

"I'm very happy with the way things turned out. But no more," she said.

Gathered in the family room at their Wayne residence, the Rickel family must refer to a hand-written list of scribbled names, dates and ages to refresh their memories as to how many children they have. The list comes in handy when trying to recall how many grandchildren and great-grandchildren they have.

"Don't help him. Let him do it himself," said Florence who hushed her daughter Bonnie, 16, who was attempting to assist her father in listing his grandchildren.

After lengthy debate and family discussion it was agreed: from Karl and Florence's combined marriages they have 18 children, one who died in an auto accident in 1961. They have 34 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

"But don't ask me to name them, 'cause I can't. But I keep them happy enough," said the smiling, self-described family man. He then proceeded to play "The Bear Went Over The Mountain" on his rustic looking harmonica, stopping only longer enough to answer questions.

Karl is a retired federal security officer, having worked at the Detroit Metropolitan Airport, when it was at the Romulus Air Base for 17 years. He also is a World War I veteran.

While some may contend that Karl is too old to properly care for a child of 8, he argues to the contrary.

"I know a lot of people with big wages who do not and could not raise a kid half as well as I've raised mine," Karl said. "I love kids. And mine have never gone without what they needed."

Bonnie attests to that.

"Some of the kids at school think he's (Karl) my grandpa. I tell them he's my dad, but they don't believe me and they laugh," Bonnie said. "But I don't care because I think they're (her peers) stupid because he's a good dad."

Karl and Florence have some tried and true disciplinary strategies to keep their large lot in line, such as warning and implementing the longstanding policy of no food or television if daily chores are not completed.

"I respect my mom and dad. They're good to us," said Bonnie.

What about those stares in disbelief, like when Florence and Karl enrolled Kirk in the Cub Scouts?

"People looked at us. They couldn't believe we were Kirk's mom and dad," Florence said. "I think it's funny just to watch those people get all worked up."

"But you know there's no secret to it ..."

Triple tier family

"That certainly tops ours," said Robert Graham, assistant director of Wayne State University's Gerontology department.

Graham was referring to Wayne residents Florence and Karl Rickel who gave birth to a child when Karl was 77 years old, and Florence was 44.

"We have a man who is 77 who has a 4-year-old. But they (the Rickels) beat what we have on record," Graham said.

Graham said the Rickel family is a prime example of a "triple tier family," a three-generation immediate family.

Kirk, the Rickel's youngest child may be unique to his parents, but his situation is not. There are thousands of children just like him — born into the middle age of their mothers and fathers — who are the children of "older" parents, Graham said.

They may have arrived after their brothers and sisters were grown, as did Kirk, or maybe their parents married late.

Whatever the reason, these children are being raised by parents nearly two generations older than themselves — mothers and fathers who remember piling into the rumble seats and dancing the lindy hop.

Kirk's father Karl was born in 1894. Kirk, at age 8, is young enough to be Karl's great grandson, Graham noted.

"But that isn't necessarily bad. Some people may believe parents that old are denying their children a normal childhood, but that's not so," Graham said. "If there are brothers or stepbrothers around who can give the boy the companionship he needs and requires that the father may not be able to give, then things can work out quite well."

Meet my parents

It was like a scene, straight out of the old movie flicks "Ma and Pa Kettle," with Karl and Florence Rickel of Wayne endearingly referring to one another as "Ma" and "Pa". And that they are, undeniably so. At age 85, Karl just finished enrolling his 8-year-old son, Kirk, into the local Cub Scout pack. The Rickel family is an example of a "triple tier" family, where there are three generations or more within the immediate family, according to a professor of gerontology at Wayne State University. — ANP photo.

4. Motion by McAnally, supported by Cantrell to adopt Resolution 79-412.

RESOLUTION 79-412

WHEREAS: Representative Montgomery has introduced House Bill 4712, a bill to provide for the imposition, levy, computation, collection, enforcement, by lien or otherwise, of taxes on certain financial transactions, transfers, and presentation for payment or collection of negotiable instruments; and

WHEREAS: The citizens of the State of Michigan are currently being taxed to the limit of their ability to pay same; and

WHEREAS: These same citizens, in an attempt to control the taxing ability of its governmental officials, approved a constitutional amendment intended to provide constraints without prohibiting governments' growth; and

WHEREAS: It is the belief of the City Council of the City of Romulus that its legislature could more productively serve the citizens of the State of Michigan by directing its energies to efficient utilization of existing State revenues as local government is required; and

WHEREAS: House Bill 4712 fails to provide any benefit to be derived by the citizens of the State of Michigan, but appears to be yet another gimmick to extort from the public, new revenues.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: By the City Council of the City of Romulus that it does herewith set forth its unalterable objection to House Bill 4712 and does further implore the Governor and the Legislature to defeat this measure.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this Resolution be forwarded to Governor William C. Milliken, Senator William Faust, State Representatives Gary Owen and Edward E. Mahalak, and all surrounding communities.

Teamsters 'bugged' about bug

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Use of a printer's "bug" on political literature put out by council candidate Ernest Hendricks and mayoral candidate William Daniels seems to be "bugging" quite a few people — including the Teamsters Union.

The controversy increased recently when Hendricks and Daniels received strong letters from James L. Kelley, executive director of Michigan Teamsters Council 43 D-R-I-V-E, telling them to stop using the Teamsters' patented seal on their political literature.

In letters written to the Committee to elect Ernest Hendricks and the Committee to retain the Daniels Team, Kelley wrote: "We are in receipt of certain material authorized and paid for by your committee... This material has on the bottom of the sheet the patented seal of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters."

"The use of this patented seal without specific authorization from the General President of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters is a violation of the Federal Patent Laws."

Kelley further said that unless the two committees could furnish written authorization to use the patented seal, his union would take "whatever action we deem appropriate."

He concluded by stating: "We believe you have slandered our organization by the use of the seal, which indicates we, as an organization, are supporting your candidate."

"We have not and will not endorse your candidate. We also believe your action could be against the Fair Campaign Law and could result in your candidate being disqualified for office, if elected."

Hendricks and Daniels strongly denied any intent of wrong-doing or to imply they were endorsed by the Teamsters Union. Hendricks explained that he had the political literature printed by the J.L. Hudson Print Shop, which he says is a Teamster Union shop.

Hendricks, who is employed by the J.L. Hudson Company, said he is philosophically committed to unions.

"Apparently someone in his zeal to discredit me, decided to proceed on this matter without obtaining the facts," Hendricks said. "Had they bothered to do so, they would have found that everything is perfectly legitimate. I intend to keep using my company's facilities, which pays my bread and butter, over any other firm."

Hendricks said the J.L. Hudson print shop does a lot of printing for outside firms and individuals.

"It's a big source of revenue for them. I insisted when I ordered the printing done that I pay full price, that there be no question about it. It will appear on my finance report. Anyone is welcome to check it out."

Hendricks specifically requested that the "union bug" be put on his political literature. A "union bug" is an oval-shaped insignia of a particular union, with a number and city printed on it, showing the work is done by union workers.

Hendricks said the J. L. Hudson Print Shop, to his knowledge, put their Teamsters bug on the back of his literature and on the one piece of literature he had printed for the Daniels' team.

Daniels, a candidate for mayor running on a slate with all six incumbent councilmen, also said there was no intent to mislead anyone.

"Mr. Hendricks, who is part of our team, had the printing done, and our conscience is clear. We have done nothing wrong at all and were simplifying using union printing, which we as Democrats always do."

Daniels and Hendricks, who are on the same slate, both said they felt it was an attempt by an opponent to try and stir up a phony issue.

They were referring to mayoral candidate Edward Bivens Jr., who denied precipitating the incident.

"A concerned citizen saw the Teamsters logo on their literature and brought it to my attention and asked me to do something about it," Bivens said. He said only after he was approached did he take the matter to the Teamsters Union.

Billy Mendenall, business representative for Teamsters Local 214, law enforcement division, said that the wrong logo had been put on the literature of Hendricks and Daniels.

"As far as I know, and I've done some checking into it, no one is allowed to use the Teamsters International logo without permission of the Teamsters International Union in Washington, D.C.," Mendenall said.

"The Teamsters Union is not endorsing nor backing any candidate in either the primary or general election in Inkster at this time. The main intention of the letter (Kelley's letter) was to stop the candidates from using the Teamsters' logo, which infers Teamster support or endorsement," Mendenall added. "If they continued to use it, we would probably have to take some stronger action."

Mendenall said that the Teamsters logo as used on the printed literature of Hendricks and Daniels was not the regular Teamsters Union bug.

Hendricks said his repeated attempts to reach Kelley have proved fruitless and he has not been able to discuss it with him.

However, he said he talked with the Teamsters office and explained that J. L. Hudson Print Shop was a Teamster union shop and that they put the symbol on the back of the literature.

What's for lunch?

Parenting by YMCA

"Teen-agers: A challenge for Parents" will be the topic of an 8-evening series being offered for parents by the YWCA of Western Wayne County in conjunction with Eastern Michigan University Contemporary Parenting Program.

The series begins Oct. 23. It will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m. It will be held at the YW, 26279 Michigan Avenue, between Beech Daly and John Daly in Inkster.

Parents will actively participate in discussion facilitated by instructor Mary Browe, the supervisor-coordinator of parenting programs in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools. The course is designed to aid parents in guiding teens to emotional and social independence with emphasis on developing effective ways of communicating with teenagers.

Parents will explore together the developmental changes that teens experience and develop techniques to cope with typical adolescent behavior that results from these changes.

Teen-age need for independence is often demonstrated by rebellious behavior. Parents are encouraged to see such behavior as a sign of growth, while being encouraged to develop reasonable rules that provide guidelines for the adolescent and promote family unity.

Some areas covered in discussion are sexuality, drugs and alcohol and school problems.

The class size is limited so advance registration is necessary. Fee for the 8-session class is $10 for one parent and $14 for both parents which includes YWCA membership for the mother for one year.

For registration information call the YWCA at 561-4110.

8A. Motion by Canejo, supported by Carter, to adopt Resolution No. 79-434:

RESOLUTION 79-434

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus has proposed, by its Resolution No. 78-207, legislation which would provide for a more equitable distribution of tax revenue generated by the location of industrial facilities utilizing P.A. 198, specifically, a State Sharing Plan whereby a portion of the additional individual income tax and single business tax generated by P.A. 198 participants would be returned to the Municipality, where the industrial facility is located, which amount shall be retroactive for one (1) year to partially offset the real property incentives previously granted; and
WHEREAS: The legislature has failed, to date, to take steps to approve legislation which would represent a fair and equitable distribution of taxes generated by industrial facilities utilizing P.A. 198 as an incentive for development; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus has persistently and consistently urged the legislature to take steps to provide a more realistic allocation of liquor licenses for facilities locating in the City of Romulus principally to service the demand generated by the Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport; and

WHEREAS: The legislature has, to date, failed to recognize that in order to develop commerce sufficient to handle the demand created by patrons of the Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport legislative change is required; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus is miffed, baffled and bewildered at the determination of the legislature to continue to stumble and grope first introducing legislature purported to enhance the state's industrial competitiveness under the guise that same would be beneficial to local government; but failing to approve measures to share income tax windfalls with local government; nevertheless, proceeding to introduce legislation to stimulate commercial development, failing to recognize essential prerequisites for commercial expansion (see Exhibit A), resulting in obvious failure, but determined to have its way; the legislature has structured yet another bill, House Bill 442, designed to define commercial facilities as industrial facilities.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: By the Mayor and City Council of the City of Romulus that it does herewith set forth its unalterable opposition to the State Legislatures shotgun approach to developing a positive industrial atmosphere in the State of Michigan. We are further opposed to the legislatures disregard for the welfare of local government in favor of the retention of windfall income taxes made possible by local government.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the Mayor and City Council do herewith implore the State Legislature to rethink Public Act 198, Public Act 255 and the need to share with local government income taxes generated as a result of industrial and/or commercial facilities being constructed as a result thereto; and to give consideration to the need to provide a new vehicle for issuance of Class C Liquor Licenses to facilities established to service the needs of patrons utilizing a major airport.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Governor William G. Milliken, Senator William Faust, Representatives Gary Owen and Edward Mahalak and all surrounding communities.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Canejo, McAnally, Cantrell, Carter, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.
Motion by Cantrell, supported by McAnally, to adjourn the meeting. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Canejo, McAnally, Cantrell, Carter, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

Respectfully submitted,

Buying a home in condominium complex?

By LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan
Consumers Council

Mr. H. called the Consumers Council Guideline when he and his family were seriously considering buying a home in a condominium complex. But before signing the papers and putting a deposit down, he wanted to know exactly what he could expect.

The consumer counselor explained that a condominium is a form of ownership, not a type of structure.

While individual residents own their own units, all of the residents own the parts of the complex which are used by all. Each resident is a member of the condominium association. This association maintains the joint facilities, sets the rules for the complex and charges members a monthly assessment fee to maintain the grounds. This fee may go up as expenses increase.

There are advantages to the condominium life style.

The freedom from exterior maintenance which most condominiums offer may be appealing to homeowners who are tired of mowing lawns or shoveling snow. Some condominiums offer pools, tennis courts, community houses and golf courses—features which few residents could afford individually. In addition to these benefits, mortgage interest and property taxes may be deducted from income taxes, making condominium ownership more financially attractive than renting.

It should be noted, however, that the resale value of condominiums has not increased as rapidly as the value of a single-family home. In addition, Changing Times magazine has pointed out that many condominium associations have rules—such as restricting the type of pets or hobbies residents may have—which may make the condominium more complicated to sell than an individual home.

Although the popularity of condominiums increases each year, anyone considering the purchase of one should do some homework to avoid possible pitfalls.

For example, residents of one Michigan condominium complex experienced many problems within the first year after they moved into their homes. Basement walls cracked, garage doors separated from brickwork, loose siding pulled away from buildings, and trees and shrubs were dead, missing or never planted.

To help avoid these types of problems, get information on the developer's past business record by checking with a local consumer group or Better Business Bureau. You may also want to check with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, 525 W. Ottawa, Lansing, MI 48913 or the Michigan Department of Commerce, Condominium and Living Care Section, P.O. Box 30222, Lansing, MI 48909. Both agencies can report whether there are any complaints filed against the developer in their offices.

If recreational facilities are proposed for the future, ask when they will be completed and make sure this date is included in the purchase agreement. Remember, oral promises are seldom binding.

Check with the developer about the size of the completed project. A large increase in the number of units may mean an increase in the recreational facilities and common elements of property—and an increase in the assessment you must pay.

Be sure you know what is covered by the builder's warranty and the length of coverage. If there are completed condominiums in the project, talk with the occupants about experiences concerning their unit and the operation of the project as a whole.

Find out whether the developer is permitted to rent any unsold units. A unit may be worth less if unsold condominiums become rental apartments.

Once the decision has been made to purchase one of the units in a development, an agreement-to-buy contract is signed and a down payment is made. Make sure the contract states a completion date.

When the actual unit is ready, make a physical inspection and list all changes or discrepancies. Before you close, get the developer's written promise to handle any problems within a specific time.

Check the insurance coverage carried by the condominium association to determine what kind of coverage you'll need for your own homeowner's insurance policy. Usually, you'll need insurance on everything except the bare walls, floors and ceilings.

Study every document related to the purchase of a condominium carefully before you sign. It may also be a good idea to have a qualified attorney look over the contract. Ask for a clear explanation of everything you don't understand.

Be sure you know your rights and responsibilities under the Michigan Condominium Law. An attorney should be able to explain the protection this law offers consumers. Any questions about the law could also be directed to the Condominium and Living Care Section of the Department of Commerce, P.O. Box 30222, Lansing, MI 48909; telephone 517-373-8026. In addition, this agency has pre-purchase information on condominiums and investigates complaints against condominium developers.

For more information on this or any other consumer topic, call the Consumers Council Guideline at (Note to Editor), Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. It's toll-free.

NOTE TO EDITOR:
The Consumers Council Guideline can be reached, without charge to the caller, by three different telephone numbers depending on the caller's location in Michigan. Consumers who live within the Detroit city limits should call 963-6806. Consumers who live within the Lansing area should call 373-0947. All others should call 1-800-292-5680. These three numbers will help the Council handle the calls as efficiently and effectively as possible.

Editorial opinions

Mistake

This newspaper has just been taken to task by the seven member Van Buren Township Board of Trustees.

Township officials objected to the handling of a story which detailed a mistake made by one member of that board.

That story, headlined: Township fails to notify residents, chronicled the events leading up to and following the disclosure that Township Clerk Doreen Craven, failed to notify the board at large of a proposed adult foster home's impending arrival in the community.

Interestingly enough, the Van Buren Board generally was not critical of the facts stated in the news story. Rather they felt that the story implied that all board members were guilty of the mistake.

Since that story generated considerable comment from the Van Buren Board, we feel it is appropriate to respond to those comments.

It is, and will remain, our position that the story was correct as written. While the Township board feels that the article misled residents and cast a cloud of suspicion over township hall, the reading of that story does not support such a position.

While it is possible that some may have read that article and incorrectly concluded that the entire board had acted in concert to keep information from the public, our story did not report that, and did not intend to imply that.

We naturally regret that the board feels we may have jeopardized its credibility. But it should be remembered that the Enterprise did not make the story. We only reported it.

Launch

This week's Reader's Open Forum contains a letter from a resident of Van Buren who supports in principle the closing of the alleged 'free' boat launching site on Belleville Lake.

It is apparent that some in the community who have supported the existence of a free facility for the launching of their water craft, may have done so more as a matter of choice than with an argument over the cost of the alternatives.

We have on occasion used the private Belleville Lake boat launching facilities, prior to the new ownership. Our impression was that little attempt was being made to operate the facility for the benefit of the customers.

Perhaps today, the current discussion surrounding the free site versus the DNR or private site, boils down simply to an unhappy individual experience in the past.

Since it is apparent that the new owners of the private boat launch have made more than a small effort to become good neighbors, maybe the community should not be too quick to pass judgment.

Hard-learned private capital has been invested in the community to benefit the community.

While there will always be some who refuse to pay for any service if a free alternative is available, and that point is difficult to argue, most of the community is more than willing to see an illegal and unauthorized boat launching facility closed in the best interests of the entire community.

From your lawmakers

Legislative round-up '79

WHO MAKES THE LAWS?

In 1973 the Legislature increased the personal income tax exemption to $1500; they also instituted the homestead property tax credit giving special consideration to senior citizens, veterans, and handicappers.

With a few minor changes the law reads now as it did then. But in terms of 1974 dollars, the $1500 exemption is worth about $1020; the lowest income level for senior citizens, $3000, is now worth about $2040.

The Legislature wrote the law but inflation has made the law.

The Legislature wanted to reduce taxes particularly for the poor, the elderly, and those with large families. Inflation has increased taxes, particularly on the poor, the elderly, and those with large families.

House Bill 4675 which is to be considered this week in the House Taxation Committee, indexes (adjusts dollar figures according to the present value of the dollar) the exemptions, credits and allowances offered in the income tax act. This would not correct for previous erosion caused by inflation, but it would prevent further erosion.

While it may be possible to convince a majority of the members that indexing is a good idea, the problem of financing the budget remains. Nonetheless, it would be unfair, inequitable and a cop-out to allow an "inflationary tax", disproportionately levied on fixed income and elderly, to balance the budget.

CORRECTIONS

The committee has spent a great deal of time working out a letter to go to the Corrections Commission on reinstating the JOLT (Juvenile Offenders Learn Truth) program at Jackson Prison.

The commission suspended operation of this inmate-run program based on a report which showed it did not appear to affect recidivism. The letter will call for reinstatement with a panel suggested to work out program modifications and a new evaluation.

Next week the committee has Rep. Binsfeld's House Bills 4208, 4209 and 4210 on the agenda.

While the bills are supported by the Department of Corrections and are designed to help with security in the prisons, I doubt they will be reported. House Bill 4223 on family visitation has been favorably received in public hearings and will probably be reported but the question is where the money to institute this program is to come from. It is, therefore, likely to go to Appropriations.

The Committee, in the context of this bill, may well get into other issues surrounding visitation in the prisons. House Bill 4530, which extends the detainer statute to probation and parole violations, is also on the agenda and appears to be headed for the floor.

JUVENILE CODE

The committee has been holding two more hearings on Rep. Clodfelter's Juvenile Code:

October 5 in Cheboygan and October 15 in Kalamazoo. I expect the bill will appear on the committee agenda shortly, since it is a priority item of the Governor and is a project on which Co-chairman Clodfelter has spent a great deal of time.

The question is how long it will take to handle amendments and compromises. The co-chairmen seem to like to use subcommittees

Common Cause

'Roughshod over safeguards'

Will Congress untangle the government red tape which has often prevented completion of needed energy projects? If it does, will Congress ride roughshod over basic democratic safeguards?

During October Congress will wrestle with these questions. At the root of it all is whether we can supply our energy needs without sacrificing democratic procedures, including participation by the citizens affected by energy policies. Everyone agrees that this is a necessary goal; it's in the specifics that we see the forces of American politics at work, including powerful vested interests.

Congress is about to create an Energy Mobilization Board (EMB). The unanswered question is, what will the Board's powers be? As originally proposed, it would accelerate development of new energy sources by placing certain energy projects on a regulatory "fast track." What this means is that the EMB would have the power to designate certain non-nuclear priority projects, such as a pipeline, a solar tower or a dam, as critical to the nation's energy goals. For those projects the Board would establish a timetable for federal, state and local agencies to follow in the approval process for a particular project.

This all makes good sense. We should streamline the regulatory process for key energy projects by consolidating hearings, reducing paperwork, shortening deadlines. That is the easy part. But then the vested interests move in. In the name of streamlining actions they maneuver to attack the basic processes that are designed to protect the public. We must guard against giving the EMB such broad authority that its power would endanger long established democratic safeguards. For example, the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee approved an Energy Mobilization Board which could waive substantive laws such as the Clean Air Act and other environmental and health legislation. Such authority negates the concept of democratic responsibility if an unelected Board can overturn laws which Congress has passed. If it's necessary to change or repeal a law in order to meet the nation's energy needs, our elected representatives should make the change through regular procedures and take responsibility for their actions.

Can you imagine a powerful EMB making critical energy decisions that isn't subject to basic accountability measures? Yet, some in Congress are proposing to exempt members of the Board from these safeguards. Citizens must be assured that Board decisions have been made openly, fairly, and with the public interest — not private or special interest — paramount. The Board should be subject to the same open meetings, freedom of information, public financial disclosure, and conflict of interest standards that apply to all other government bodies. The public has a right to be confident that a decision on a particular energy project is made for the benefit of the public — not for the interest of an energy company where one of the Board members was previously employed and eventually hopes to return. The job of the Energy Mobilization Board is so important that it should operate under the strictest accountability standards.

Will Congress strike the proper balance with the Energy Mobilization Board? If it does, it will ensure that energy projects, which our country needs to reduce our dependence on foreign oil, do not become victims of needless delays and red tape. At the same time it will not cripple essential environmental standards, or ignore the value of public participation in these decisions.

A Board which rides roughshod over federal, state, and local laws would not be in the public interest. A process to expedite decisions on critical projects would lead to a more rational, effective energy policy.

Reader responds to Montgomery letter

Editor:

We are writing this in response to the letter from Marilyn Montgomery printed in your paper, October 3, 1979 and in defense of the closing of the "free launch" access site to the lake.

This property is owned by the State Highway Department, and was never meant to be a ramp for boats. The property was fenced years ago and when people started breaking in the gate, locks were put on.

These people who "love" the lake broke the locks and knocked down the fence and launched their boats anyway. Then a trench was dug across the property to keep the people out. To set the record straight, we had nothing to do with the trench and do not know who dumped the concrete.

We do not understand how anyone could be "appalled by the mess" because you can barely see the concrete. The little bit dumped there to close the ramp can hardly be noticed. The appalling "mess" is the trash left there by the boaters who "love" the lake.

Since it is apparent that we are the "few" who have been so verbal about the closing, here are some of our reasons for wanting it closed:

1. Since this site was opened — unattended, 24 hours a day to everyone, it gave an open invitation to strip, steal, or damage boats and property with an easy exit at any time of the day or night.

2. Residents who live on the point across from the dam have been inconvenienced by boats noisily going by their homes during all hours of the night.

3. The residents on Alden Drive often have trouble driving their boats into the "big lake" because of the boat traffic, either launching or waiting in the bay to exit. This area is very narrow and is not conducive to this type of traffic.

4. An increasing number of boaters who launched at this site, were adventuring into the cove area behind the residents on Alden Drive, with no respect or knowledge would drive their boats at such speed that they created large wakes which eroded their shoreline, and played havoc their boats tied to their docks.

5. Since this was an unattended site with no facilities, people left piles of rubbish and garbage everywhere. Also some of these people even urinated wherever they could.

6. There were many trailers stolen at the unattended site and these thefts were reported in the Mellus Newspaper in the downriver area, but not in our own local paper.

7. Who would be responsible if someone would get hurt at this unattended site?

We have read at different times, of decisions to give a tax break to small businesses wanting to move into the community. We have a small business owner who the Township officials do not seem to care if succeeds or not. It is time to come to his defense.

Gil Gillespie purchased what was known as Guenther's Boat Marina, now known as Sandy's Marina. He has taken great pride in his business. There is no litter left lying around. Besides providing large trash containers, there is always someone picking up after the people who insist on littering.

Mr. Gillespie is now in the process of having yards and yards of cement poured to improve his property. He is there to stop someone too drunk to launch their boat (this does happen). This new owner has even hired township kids to pick-up trash along the road all the way down to the dam (way past his own property). Trash left there by fishermen who are taking advantage of the DNR stocking of our lake, but who have no respect for our community.

This private marina charges the same for launching as the DNR charged.

He is not taking advantage of being the only launch open; any lake resident or anyone renting a boat-well at any location on the lake can take their boat out for the season free of charge. He is not trying to gouge the public, let us not resent the small fee he charges to launch. It will definitely help our community.

Question of the week:

DO YOU SUPPORT A TAX SHIFT THAT WOULD REDUCE PROPERTY TAXES AND PROVIDE A CORRESPONDING INCREASE IN THE INCOME TAX?

Representative Roy Smith is sponsoring a petition drive to shift from the property tax to an income tax for operation of public schools in Michigan. Would you support a property tax reduction with an increase in the income tax if it means no cut-back in services?

Here is your chance to be heard. For many years the Legislature has debated bills giving property tax relief. Legislation has not passed because an alternative source of funding has not been agreed upon.

To give your answer, please call Rep. Roy Smith on Saturday, October 20 between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. The phone number is 422-0750.

Ask

Carol Premo

By CAROL PREMIO, C.S.W.

Carol Premo, a Certified Social Worker in private practice in Belleville, Mich., will be presenting weekly answers to problems which may have been the source of either joy or pain for some of our readers.

You are invited to ask Carol about a problem or discuss a solution by mailing your letter to: Carol Premo, Associated Newspapers, 47818 W. Huron River Drive, Belleville, Mich. 48111.

Dear Carol:

I have a problem at work. I work in a small (7 person) department in a hospital of moderate size. By and large departmental tasks are handled suitably. Occasionally there is some friction or irritation.

To handle these problems on a regular basis, hospital procedure requires monthly management — employee departmental meetings (sometimes administrators sit in on meetings). The departmental secretary takes notes; these minutes are then sent to higher level personnel managers.

What is happening in my department is that we have 2 meetings — one to solve the problems and talk "openly" as well as planning and rehearsing what is said at the second meeting — the official documented meeting. Our departmental manager wants us to be the "model" department.

Needless to say this creates an adversarial relationship between us and the rest of the management people, the ones we have to lie to and hoodwink.

This seems dishonest to me. What do you suggest I do — if anything.

Well Rehearsed,

Dear Well:

If the higher levels of management do consider that they are being lied to and "hoodwinked", it would seem that they would ultimately put some controls on the manager who instituted this practice.

Although a rehearsal does seem like a massive waste of time and perhaps contraindicated for good departmental communication, sometimes peoples desire for success makes them behave in strange ways. Perhaps you could discuss with your supervisor your feelings of discomfort in the next "rehearsal" and suggest that real communication might better be accomplished through honesty and spontaneity.

Dear Carol:

I never thought I would be writing to you with a problem, but here it goes.

I am a junior in high school and cannot make and keep friends. I do what ever people want me to do. I am friendly and nice and generally well liked but I am never asked to do anything special with one person. I follow what books say to do and still nothing special. I don't want to sound unhappy — it's OK being one of the group but I am tired of it. I want to explore some friendships that are special and meant for just me — but I don't know how to do it. I am looking forward to my junior and senior year of high school and want to share my experiences with a friend I will have for a long time. I hope you can help me — I have tried everything else.

Wants a friend

Dear Wants,

Since it sounds as if you have all the ingredients for being a friend, it would seem likely that your desires will be fulfilled. The one thing you must remember about friendships is that to have a friend you must be one. Don't sit back and wait for someone to consider you special. Get out there and show the other person that they are "special". Be open, sharing concern and considerate and the rest will follow. Then, have friends and really enjoy your last two years. They have the potential for being really great ones.

Chamber Chatter

By RICHARD L. LESHER
President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States

People will argue endlessly about the federal government, but on one point more and more Americans now agree: Zealous bureaucrats seldom allow anything — and least of all logic — to dissuade them that they are right and they have a mission to save us from ourselves. It's those Washington experts, for instance, who believe we should ban saccharin and legalize marijuana ... and who tell us the best way to reduce the federal deficit is to increase the deficit — by spending more money.

Trying to keep track of all these inconsistencies will make your head spin unless you remember that self-preservation motivates much of what the bureaucracy does. And that is why many federal programs feature these three common elements: First, the program wastes large sums of taxpayers' money; second, it seriously aggravates the very problem it was supposed to solve, and third, those running it either refuse to accept responsibility or answer in essence, "We have failed; let us continue."

As a specific example, look at OSHA, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, established in 1971 to cut down on employee injuries and illnesses. We need only examine OSHA's budget to see that we are right on track. The agency's spending has shot up more than 382 percent in the past seven years. This expansion has required industry to spend more than $25 billion in efforts to comply with the regulations. These added costs must ultimately be absorbed by consumers in the form of higher prices.

Well, what about OSHA's results? Has this massive regulatory effort at least translated into better protection for American workers? Sorry, but predictably the results have not been positive, nor even neutral; they have been negative. OSHA has not only failed to reduce serious injuries and fatalities, but the number and severity of each have sharply increased in recent years.

Without so much as a blush, OSHA has a ready defense for both its bloated budget and its empty record. First, we're told the agency's responsibility to protect workers logically entitles it to receive and spend huge annual budget increases funded by taxpayers. But then we're told the agency cannot be held responsible for what it does since employers are responsible for safety. OSHA wants it both ways, and its supporters defend it by claiming the safety problem would be much worse if OSHA did not exist.

Oh really? OSHA — funded research attributes 75 percent of all accidents to "behavioral problems or momentary (nonpersistent) hazardous conditions." That conclusion was confirmed by a California Department of Industrial Relations' study which found 82 percent of all occupational accidents could never be prevented by governmental inspection.

Also, how does one explain that during the 25-year period before OSHA's creation in 1971 — when industry was handling safety and health concerns itself — the rate of serious injuries and fatalities steadily declined? Only after the creation of OSHA did this trend reverse and begin climbing.

Business managers do and should care about protecting their employees. Many enjoy personal friendships. All know it is in their interest to avoid accidents that trigger costly workmen's compensation and necessitate new hiring as far greater expense than preventive health and safety programs. But business must spend billions of dollars each year filling out regulatory forms in duplicate, triplicate and quadruplicate rather than investing in new and safer plants and equipment. I believe it is no coincidence that the rise in accidents corresponds with a decline in investment.

Safety dollars are a vitally important expenditure, so let's stop throwing them away. Let's stop giving a blank check to bureaucrats so preoccupied with job preservation. Robert Ringer, author of Restoring the American Dream, sums it up well: "The regulatory game is a game of destruction. It is imperative that the bureaucratic regulators find problems, even if they do not exist. If problems were solved and new problems could not be found, they would be out of a job. The essence of governmental policy is: 'You build a better mousetrap and we'll build a bigger mouse.'"

Reflections

Intimidated by servicemen

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

People who perform home services have always been able to intimidate me.

It has been a constant source of amazement to the man who pays my bills that I used to run around cleaning out cupboards, and closets, scrubbing the bathroom and cleaning out the linen closet the day before the cleaning woman came. I have outgrown this, although I still find myself following her around from room to room apologizing for the crummy mess the whole place is in.

Practically everyone likes to work for me because I feel compelled to run down and get the scrub pails and the rags and I have even been known to rush out and buy a new mop or something when the current cleaning woman has looked down her nose at what I have on hand.

However, it's not only the cleaning woman who intimidates me ... it's anyone who is going to do something in my house for me.

Not too long ago I called a carpet cleaner and asked him to come out and give me an estimate on cleaning my carpet.

Now the reason I wanted the carpet cleaned was because it was dirty, but when I saw his truck drive up I ran to the kitchen and got a damp cloth and tried furiously to get a couple of spots out that he would have to see as he came in the front door.

And so there I was, ready to pay this guy money for cleaning my carpet, and I'm down on my hands and knees trying to rub up a spot I was intending to pay him for doing.

When I finally opened the door the palms of my hands got soggy than a wet dish cloth and I scrounged along behind him, mortified at every spot on the dirty carpet that I wanted him to clean.

The time I really got shook up and for days hid in the broom closet whenever anyone knocked on my door, was the time I hired a man to clean my sofa, and he wouldn't even touch it!

The thing that really intimidates me, though, are the questions they ask ... like, how can you get a carpet that dirty, or how did that sofa get in a condition like that?

And what makes me so furious with myself is that I let them stand there and lambaste me for asking them to use their time and their material when I'm the one who's paying them to use it.

It isn't until after they've gone that I find my tongue and really let them have it!

My kids have a strange habit of taking off doorknobs. I don't know why and I don't know when they do it, but all of a sudden there appears a gaping hole where a doorknob used to be.

Now I really am fond of my kid's father, but I have to be honest when I say he is not a good doorknob fixer. Long ago we've gotten used to getting out of the bathroom door with a toothbrush and reconciled ourselves to the fact that anyone caught in a bedroom without a screwdriver has only himself to blame.

Sometimes we've not seen a kid for several days when someone has misplaced the screw driver or won't let us use his toothbrush.

The other day a painter came to this doorknobless house. Suffering my usual sense of mortification I left him upstairs to do his painting while I went down and, clashed pans together so he would think I was a good housewife.

There came a wild thumping from the upper regions, followed by a hushed quietness.

If a vacuum cleaner salesman had come to the door at that moment I would have pressed a screwdriver into his hand and sent him up those stairs, because I knew what had happened and I just wasn't woman enough to face it.

No vacuum cleaner salesman came, and not even a kid showed up, and I found exactly what I thought I would find ... a locked in painter, standing there in a sort of petrified glazed daze, staring at the screw-driver in my hand.

"You got something against doorknobs?" he asked.

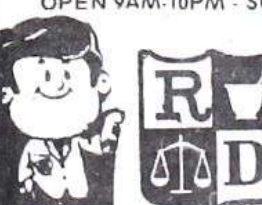

I suppose there's an answer to that one somewhere. But to this day I haven't been able to come up with it!

Commission wants 'Jolt' re-instated

A fact-finding Committee on Corrections for the State Legislature has notified two Wayne County Commissioners that it is recommending the immediate reinstatement of the county's Juvenile Offenders' Day at Jackson (DAJAK).

This came as good news to the commissioners—Jackie Currie of Detroit and Mary Dumas of Livonia—who developed and nurtured the project for nearly a year only to see it threatened with permanent suspension as the result of what they considered "premature evaluation" by the Correction Commission's Chief of Research James Yarborough.

According to Mrs. Currie, DAJAK's follow-up programs, which include monitored parental guidance, job and educational assistance and environment supervision, offered juvenile offenders, after they have been introduced to the horrors of actual prison life, was the prime reason for the recommended reinstatement.

"The Corrections Committee," Mrs. Dumas said, "is insisting that all future juvenile offender projects initiated in Michigan include such follow-up services as those established by Wayne County's DAJAK program."

"They also want an independent agency outside of the Department of Corrections to evaluate the programs and a panel to monitor the programs consisting of judges, court workers, juvenile probation officers and community leaders."

In making their recommendations to the State Corrections recently, the committee asked that there be an emphasis placed on the total family and that evaluation be made of all aspects of the program — prisoners, probation authorities, parents — to determine its impact.

Prison Officials pointed out at the fact-finding hearing that prisoners taking part in the JOLT (Juveniles Learn the Truth) program at Jackson Prison, where Wayne County and other counties send their juveniles for the initial shock of witnessing prison life, have shown a marked improvement in their attitude as the result of working with the youngsters.

SEMTA adds route

SEMTA (Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority) has added an early-bird trip to the Taylor-Detroit bus route.

The first trip leaves Beech Daly and Goddard at 5:19 a.m. and arrives in downtown Detroit at the Renaissance Center at 6:15 a.m. Stops along the route include Beech Daly and Wick, Wick and Pardee, Pelham and Champaign, Englewood and Park, Allen and Southfield, Allen and Outer Drive and Oakwood and Schaefer.

"The early-bird trip was added to the Taylor-Detroit route as a convenience for our passengers who have to begin work at 6:30 a.m. and for those passengers who have to transfer to D-DOT routes serving non-Central Business District employment centers," said SEMTA General Manager Larry E. Salci.

At the same time, SEMTA has extended 13 trips on the 150 Taylor-Detroit route to travel into Southland Center. Six of the trips travel via Pelham to Southland and seven trips travel via Wick Road into Meijer's Thrifty Acres and Southland Center.

For SEMTA schedules and information regarding the 150 Taylor-Detroit route, call 962-5515, or toll-free 1-800-462-5161.

Recently named to the Academic Honors List for the spring quarter at Ferris State College in Big Rapids were Belleville residents Jon Karl Batzer of Clarence Street and Pamela Sue Fitch of Second Street.

To be named to the listing the twosome had to earn at least a 3.25 average on a 4.0 basis and carry a full academic load of 14 credit hours.

Also making the college scene: Two Belleville collegians have completed their programs of study at Ferris State College in Big Rapids.

Collecting degrees were Jon K. Batzer of Clarence, and Otty V. Turrentine of Harris, associate of applied science degree in audio-visual technology and a certificate in graphic reproduction.

Belleville-Romulus residents slated to receive their degrees from the University of Michigan-Dearborn, included Abhay Vishnu Vadhavkar of Denton Road, Belleville, master of science in mechanical engineering; and Mary Jane Hagerman of Halecreek, Romulus, bachelor of science in administration.

Degree candidates at the conclusion of the summer term at Michigan State University in East Lansing included Timothy Miank of Savage Road, Belleville, master of arts.

Several appointments, promotions and approved Sept. 19 by the Eastern Michigan University Board of Regents included Donna Moses of Belleville, appointed secretary in the department of home economics; Teri Nagel of Belleville, appointed senior clerk in the Admissions Office; Marianne Szlinis of Belleville, appointed senior clerk-typist in the Athletic Office; Connie Gowen of Belleville, promoted from account clerk to secretary II in the University Bookstore; and Doris Miller of Belleville, promoted from senior clerk-typist to custodian in the physical plant department.

Disenchanted Wayne, Monroe meet

Zebras hope Homecoming will snap them out of doldrums

Did Fordson damage Wayne Memorial's grid machine beyond repair?

Initial indications would lead one to believe so.

After seeing its 4-game winning streak end at the hands of undefeated Fordson two weeks ago, Coach Floyd Carter's troops lost a 20-12 battle on Friday to Lincoln Park and head into the week sporting a 3-2 Great Lakes 8 Conference record.

And Wayne will have to snap out of its doldrums at the expense of Monroe, a team that is seated in second with a 4-1 record.

But Wayne will have all of the hoopla that goes with homecoming to help lift it from the ashes.

"Monroe is tough," Floyd Carter said. "We know it. And we will have to be ready for a hard-hitting game. I feel we have to eliminate the mistakes that have killed us in the past."

As in the Fordson game where Wayne racked up approximately 75 yards in penalties in the first quarter, Wayne committed crucial mistakes at Lincoln Park.

The Parkers capitalized on the Zebras' mistakes and piled up a 20-0 lead before Wayne got on the scoreboard late in the first half.

In the final minute of the second quarter Wayne runningback Rick Rogers got the Zebras going as he managed to cut into Parker territory on three successive carries. A Rick Covault to Larry Wilson pass advanced the visitors to the Parker 12-yard line where Don Shumpert scored Wayne's only touchdown of the half.

Wayne elected to go for the two-point conversion, but Lincoln Park sacked Covault before he could get the pass off.

After sputtering most of the third quarter, Wayne managed to make a close game out of it with a fourth quarter touchdown. The Zebras started from their own 39-yard line after a Parker punt into the wind and scored with 4:37 left in the game on Rogers' 13-yard off tackle power play.

A Covault to Eric Czatniewski pass, good for 39-yards, set up the touchdown. Rogers also scooped up a fumbled toss on an option to score the two-point conversion.

Wayne helped in its own demise, chalking up 77 yards in penalties because of seven infractions, including a offside and clipping call that paved the way for the Parkers' first score.

Rogers accounted for 67 of Wayne's 154 yards rushing. He carried 17 times.

The Parkers had the edge in first downs 15-14.

"What we need now more than ever is to regain the confidence and poise we had earlier in the year," Carter stressed.

For some reason Gulliver and the lilliputians come to mind as this story developed over the telephone the other day.

"Oh, he's six feet, seven inches," said Sharon Popek, referring to Don Gotham, a former all-state, all-area gridder from Wayne Memorial. "He's about 240 pounds and he's looks as if he's still growing."

Gotham apparently will invade the land of the little people at noon Friday to tell them about the life of a football player. He's scheduled to talk to a group at Wick Elementary School in Romulus. (The school is located on Wick, west of Wayne rd.)

Don is presently playing collegiate ball for Wayne State University, a team that recently knocked off two-time defending Great Lakes Conference champ, Grand Valley State.

"Don will be appearing at the school in conjunction with our Career Education Week," explained Mrs. Popek who was a kindergarten teacher at the school for ten years before being promoted to first grade this year. "What the program aims for is to teach children the relationship of what is learned in school and what people do in life. We try to tie the important things together."

Wasn't that what happened to Gulliver- tied up in knots?

Anyway, Gotham shouldn't have any problems presenting his case, after all, he's majoring in criminal justice at Wayne State.

Running and runners have finally come out in the open.

If the recent Detroit Free Press marathon is any criterion, there are thousands of area and local runners taking to the streets to get into and keep in shape.

That may be healthful for the runners, but it also can be dangerous and is causing some problems.

Here's Canton Township's attractive Vickie Bragg to explain: "My husband and I are avid runners," Mrs. Bragg said. "He took part and finished the recent marathon, however, I didn't run in it. I felt I needed more preparation before I challenged that distance."

"But, I didn't contact you for publicity about our running. There is another reason. It seems there is a serious problem that most people and cities don't address themselves to - and that is of dogs on the loose."

"Running and runners are left wide open to attacks by these dogs and there isn't much a runner can do," Mrs. Bragg continued, "therefore, we would like to appeal to you because so many read your column to do something about this potentially dangerous situation."

We'll do our best.

But I don't think many dogs read our column.

Seriously, though, we will get this over to the department of safety in our area and see if we can alert those in charge to get out the leashes.

Homecoming foe

Marysville invades Belleville High

Belleville Coach Mike Colletta knows little about but has heard much of Marysville.

"No, I haven't seen them play this year," said the rookie Belleville High coach. "But, they're ranked eighth in Class B and are leading their area in playoff points, and are 6-0 on the season if that tells you anything about them."

Colletta's concern about Marysville is more than just statistical. His Tigers will host the state Class B powerhouse Friday night for Homecoming.

And if Colletta and his Tigers don't pry loose a victory they may wind up without a victory for their 1979 work.

"That is a dreary possibility," Colletta said. "When you look at our schedule you can understand that the past games were tough, but what lies ahead is even tougher."

Belleville will face in its final two weekends an improved Livonia Bentley and natural rival, Ypsilanti.

Colletta is yet to receive four quarters of consistent play from his team. He got three, though, at Dearborn where the Tigers were shut out 25-0.

"We held them for three quarters," Colletta said, "and I feel we played excellent defense during that time. In fact, they didn't score a touchdown until the final 12 minutes."

The Pioneers got on the scoreboard in the first quarter via a 47-yard Harry Moore field goal. Moore also booted a 35-yarder in the third quarter.

Belleville had an excellent chance of scoring after the half when the Tigers, thanks to runningback Rick Winekoff moved from their own 20 yard line to the Dearborn three-yard line. At the three, Winekoff fumbled and Dearborn recovered.

Winekoff was the impetus behind that drive. He caught a 36-yard pass from quarterback Mike Sampson and also carried five times in the sequence, picking up 26 yards on one try.

Three Belleville fumbles deep in Dearborn territory also erased legitimate scoring threats.

Winekoff, who finished the afternoon with 61 yards on 13 tries, got ample help from center Dave Stamper who opened up the holes. Winekoff also looked good on defense as a middle guard and defensive end Scott Forrester was another reason why the Pioneers had their problems moving against the Tiger defense.

Whatta way to start

Junior quarterback Rick Discher (12) is developing very quickly as a signal-caller and Glenn Coach Chuck Gordon has decided to give him an opportunity to lead the team's attack the rest of the season. Here Discher sprints around right end against Thurston Friday night on a keeper while tailback Kenny Liedel (1) trails on the play. Liedel, who had been quarterback, was switched to tailback for the first game in his high school career and gained 104 yards in 16 carries and scored four touchdowns in the Rockets' 34-7 Homecoming victory.

Homecoming sweet for Glenn

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

The reports of John Glenn's demise appear to be drastically premature - much like Mark Twain's humorous quote of years gone by.

Coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets blasted Thurston, 34-7, Friday night before a huge homecoming crowd that roared with delight after all five touchdowns and during the festive halftime ceremonies.

After losing two consecutive football games for the first time since 1974, Glenn overpowered an obviously over-matched Thurston squad in rolling up 388 total yards. Now Glenn meets always tough North Farmington at 2 p.m. Saturday on the Raiders' field.

Glenn's resurgence was led by versatile Ken Liedel (pronounced LEE-dle), who scored four touchdowns in the first game he ever played at tailback.

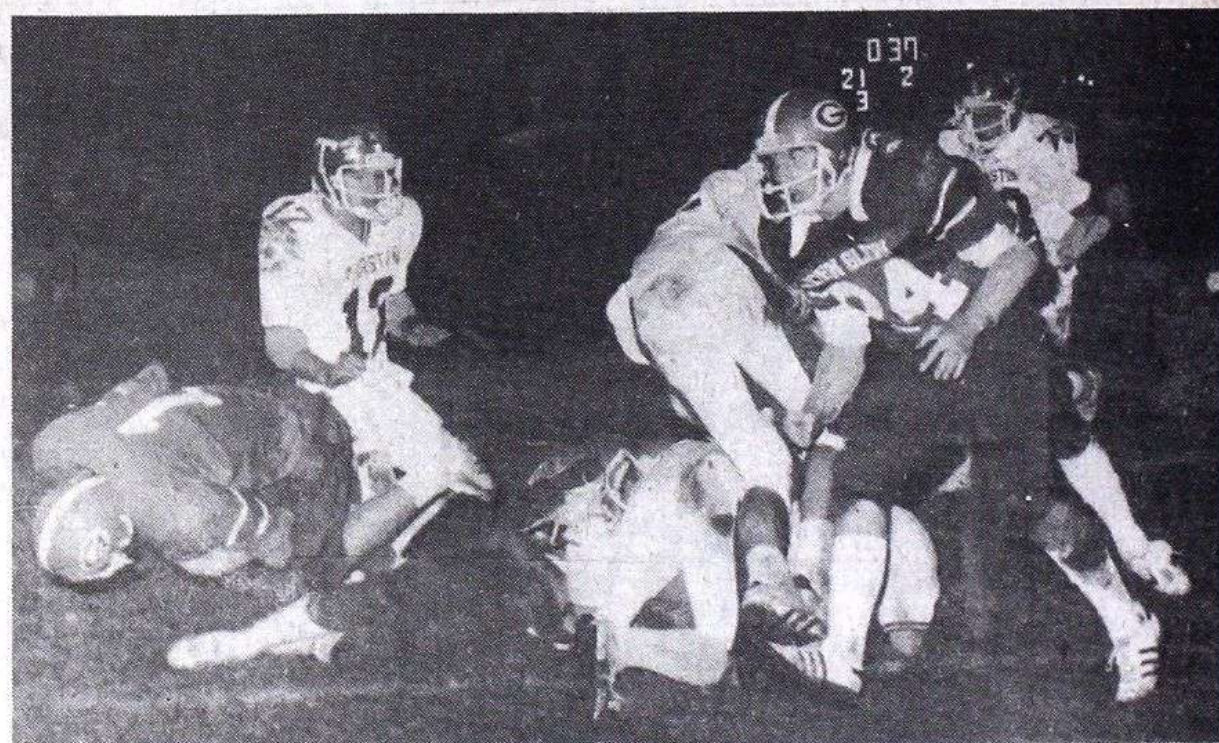

You might say Gordon "got by with a Liedel help from his friends." The 5-10, 160-pound senior, who usually plays quarterback, was pushed into service at tailback because of an ankle injury to junior Greg O'Neil.

"Kenny had a tremendous game and we appreciate his all-out dedication. We were undecided whether to move Scott Thornton back to tailback from fullback or try Liedel at tailback," Gordon explained.

"With Greg O'Neil hobbled with an ankle injury, we decided to try Liedel at tailback because junior Rick Discher is coming along real fast as a quarterback. And Liedel really responded."

Responded? Would you believe exploded? Liedel, playing tailback for the first time in his career, raced for 104 yards in 16 carries and scored four touchdowns before a packed homecoming crowd at John Glenn field.

With Glenn's five candidates for Queen introduced and looking on,

Coming on strong

Senior Ken Liedel has spent his football playing time at quarterback and flanker. Coach Chuck Gordon moved the versatile athlete to tailback for the first time Friday night and the 5-10, 160-pound Liedel responded with four touchdowns against Thurston. Look for Liedel to do a lot more running from the tailback spot the last three games this season. Glenn's 34-7 victory evened its season record to 3-3 over-all and 2-2 in the conference. Liedel (1) is shown blasting past cornerback Paul Kostegian (12) for a one-yard touchdown late in the third period.

Liedel certainly qualified as "king" of the festivities. He capped the Rockets' first scoring drive of 64 yards in seven plays, bursting 26 yards to paydirt off right tackle behind brilliant blocking by the line. John Johnston missed the extra point as Glenn led, 6-0.

Six minutes later in the first quarter, fullback Thornton, who had another explosive and productive night with 141 yards in 16 rushes, slashed over from the 6-yard-line. Quarterback Rick Discher's pass to slotback Anthony Cabrera was good for the two-point conversion and Glenn led, 14-0.

The Rockets added two more touchdowns in the second quarter while the defense stifled the Thurston attack completely.

Liedel took a pitch-out around right end for seven yards to make it 21-0 after Johnston's extra point kick was perfect. The TD capped a 71-yard drive that only took four plays. Keys in the successful thrust were a 42-yard gallop around left end by Thornton and a 19-yard burst up the middle by Liedel.

Liedel scored his third TD on a four-yard burst off right tackle to up the score at halftime to 27-0 as Johnston's extra point kick was blocked by Thurston's Mark Erickson, who played a whale of a game both ways for the Eagles.

Sparking the 52-yard, seven-play drive were two scintillating runs by Cabrera, who sprinted 18 yards for a first down on Thurston's 22 and a 12-yard burst for another first down on the seven.

Even though there was a little difficulty with the floats driving by the stands at halftime, Glenn's "machine" didn't miss a beat as it

Spartans enjoy Homecoming

It was a kind of Homecoming Game that all coaches like to see their teams play.

Scoring once in each of the four quarters, Cherry Hill ripped visiting Dearborn Heights Riverside 28-0 on Saturday to warm an otherwise freezing Spartan crowd.

Senior tailback Randy Frederick led the Spartan festivities as he scored twice on runs of 60 and two yards and rushed for over 100 yards.

"It was a good victory for us," said Cherry Hill Coach Jerry Pawloski. "And it was a strange sort of game because we had possession of the ball only twice in the first half, and scored both times."

Though the visiting Dearborn Heights' team had possession of the ball most of the initial half, they never ventured past the Spartan 30 yard line. Cherry Hill got their hands on the ball after a punt in the waning minutes of the opening quarter and senior quarterback Aaron Gregory engineered a 69-yard drive which culminated with Mike Johnson's 30-yard touchdown run.

Johnson was jarred loose on a trap play, opening up the corridor in the middle.

Before the half ended, Frederick scored on a 60-yard off-tackle play.

Gregory's pass to Frederick's accounted for the first conversion, while Mike Tesschke went around end for the second one, boosting the Spartans' halftime lead to 16-0.

The Spartans didn't waste any time in the second half adding to their total. After the kick-off they marched 70-yards in 12 plays and

Two-way standout

Junior Greg O'Neil is developing this year as an outstanding two-way player for Glenn's Rockets. Here O'Neil(34) puts the stopper on Thurston's Mark Erickson(43) after he took a handoff from quarterback Paul Kostegian. Erickson was brilliant on offense and defense for the Eagles in a losing cause, scoring their only touchdown and making many open field tackles. O'Neil, who rushed for 69 yards in 10 carries two weeks ago against Garden City East and scored one touchdown, wasn't able to practice before the Thurston game because of an ankle injury. However, he was well enough to play defense and made several good defensive stops.

Romulus snaps losing streak

Eagles to host Oak Park for Homecoming

Romulus's fierce desire to finally win paid off Saturday night as Coach Don Foley's Eagles ended a 5-game losing streak at the expense of Port Huron Central, 12-7.

"The kids played very much like the way they have played all year with a lot of heart," said Foley. "But we finally got some of the breaks to go our way and now I feel the kids know how to win and we're hoping the momentum will carry over to the next game and the rest of the season."

Romulus's next confrontation is with Oak Park, and the Eagles will have the benefit of a homecoming crowd on hand. The Parkers are in a tailspin of their own. They'll be coming into Friday afternoon's battle with a two-game losing streak.

"They're quick and big," Foley pointed out, "and really physical. I'm sure they haven't forgotten our last second 36-35 victory over them a year ago."

The 80-mile plus trip to Port Huron was a long one and the way Central came out fighting, it looked as if the Eagles were in for a longer night. Central drove 75-yards in their initial series after the kickoff to penetrate inside the Eagles' 15 yard line. But Romulus's defense, held together by tackle Mark Inch who collected 11 solo tackles for the game, Ron Champaigne, Robert Knight and Hirim Golden, managed to stop their hosts.

Establishing their superiority on defense, Romulus broke the scoreless deadlock in the last minute of the initial half. With 22 seconds left, runningback Shawn Green scored from the four, culminating a 35-yard, eight play drive set up by Dwayne Parker's interception at the Central 45. Of those eight plays, Green was called upon seven times to carry the ball.

Quarterback Marty Knight attempted the point-after kick and the ball went wide.

Romulus got its insurance and what proved to be the winning touchdown early in the fourth quarter. Again it was Green who tallied, again going in from the four. That touchdown capped a 45-yard, nine-play sustained drive which began deep in Central territory. Romulus punter Rich Hoth kicked to the Port Huron 45-yardline where Pat Mahon got to the receiver who fumbled the ball which was recovered by Jeff Wensko at the Central 45.

That last touchdown drive was kept in motion because of a shoe-top catch by Mark Schick from Knight on a third-and-seven play, good for nine yards and a first down.

Central regained possession of the ball at midfield when Romulus fumbled and kept a drive alive on a fourth down and four offside penalty. They gave up the ball seven yards short of the winning touchdown, but not after missing a "wide open" pass receiver on a third play. Knight's interception in the end zone was the last play of the game and sealed the Eagles' first win of the 1979 campaign.

Knight's receivers had problems. His three of nine passing record is deceptive in that three of his passes were in-and-out of receivers' hands and even bounced off their shoulder pads.

"There are no logical reasons for Northwest Suburban title runs into a lot of 'ifs'

BOB HOLMES

And Coach Bob Holmes' Patriots over at Livonia Franklin will try to snatch it away from the league-pacesetter.

"There are a lot of 'ifs' involved in this year's championship race," Holmes pointed out after his harriers buried Thurston 15-43. "North is undefeated while John Glenn and us have one loss each. If we can get past North Farmington and if Glenn beats Garden City East this week, three teams will go into the league championship with one loss apiece."

The championship will be decided on Tuesday at San Marino Golf Course in Farmington. Joining the three hopefuls will be runners representing Redford Union, Thurston and Garden City East.

Coach Holmes figures that his No.1 runner, junior Paul Coburn, is the man to beat for individual honors in the league.

"Paul appears to be the No.1 runner in the league and I feel he has the best shot at the title," Holmes added.

How does the veteran Franklin coach see the championship finals.

"Very close - team-wise North will have the edge if they beat us on Thursday, but our chances are good. We're ready."

Coburn toured the 3-miles against Thurston in 16:10 to lead a pack of Patriots including Jeff Bristow, John Hart, John Lank and Mike White across the finish line.

Robichaud is next for Vikings

Inkster puts on its best for Ecorse

Scoring more points against Ecorse last Friday than it did all season a year ago, Inkster crushed the visiting Red Raiders 34-6 for their second win and averted the ignoble label of Suburban Athletic Conference 'doormat' for the second straight year.

The Viking conquest, its second victory in three SAC starts, lifted Coach Arnice James' gridders to third place (1-2) as they prepare to visit arch-rival, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Friday afternoon.

Robichaud is also 1-2 on the conference year. The Bulldogs have set aside the Inkster game as 'Homecoming'.

"It will be a tough game," Coach James stressed. "They have had their problems this year, but you can bet they will be up for us. For them, their season is based on beating us."

Problem-prone Inkster didn't appear to have any problems last week as the offense, guided by quarterback Kim Hammonds, and the defense, spearheaded by middle linebacker Roy Jones, Thaddeus Forman and Keith Hughley humbled the Red Raiders with little sweat.

Inkster scored twice in the first 12 minutes, getting on the board after an exchange of punts when Robert Claypoole drove in from the four, climaxing a 45-yard drive. A pass from Hammonds to Eric Crouch gave the Vikings an 8-0 lead which they never surrendered.

Later in the quarter Hammonds hooked up with Earvin Mitchell for a 65-yard pass-run touchdown play and the Vikings comfortably were out in front 14-0.

Before the half ended Hammonds and Crouch combined on a 55-yard scoring pass play.

"I have to say this that our offensive line blocked well, giving Hammonds enough protection to pass," Coach James said.

The Vikings scored a third quarter touchdown on another Hammonds' direct hit. This one was to Mitchell which went for 25-yards. Inkster's final score was provided by Forman who dove on a fumbled punt in the Red Raider end zone for a touchdown. Crouch made the two-point conversion.

Hammonds was lethal in the air as he connected on six of 12 passes for 178 yards and three touchdowns. When he wasn't passing, the junior quarterback was handing off to runningback Derrick Stephenson who rushed for 61 yards in 10 attempts.

Westlander cards ace

It was a first for Westland's Municipal Golf Course.

And it was appropriate that Marion H. Sexton, a Westland resident, earned the unique distinction of carding the first hole-in-one on the course since it began a municipal entity.

Sexton fired an ace on the 170-yard 7-hole recently and came off the course sporting a 33 for the par 34 layout.

The 56-year-old golfer said he hit the 'darn thing and went after it and couldn't find the ball. It was there, in the cup waiting for me."

It wasn't the first time that Sexton has experienced such jubilation. He has scored two other aces during his 35 years of golfing.

Westland John Glenn girls' swimming team opened up the 1979 Northwest Suburban Conference campaign last week with an impressive 104-68 victory over Livonia Franklin's Patriots.

The victory was Glenn's third in four starts this season and Coach Jim Lawrence's swimmers face Redford Thurston for their next conference test.

Claiming seven out of a possible 11 first places, the Westlanders dominated the relays, while Franklin received a pair of double wins from Sandy Baranski, who won the 200-yard freestyle and 100-yard butterfly, and Sharon Taromina who captured top honors in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle.

Ypsi ruins Cougar fete

Snatching two out of a possible three victories, the Ypsilanti Braves spoiled the Belleville Cougars' Homecoming festivities last week.

The Cougars got a three-yard touchdown from Richard Kozole but it wasn't enough in the freshman game which went to the Braves, 12-6.

Mike Beckley scored twice on runs of 36 and 3 to lift Belleville to a 19-12 victory over Ypsilanti's Junior Varsity team, while the Cougars fell 19-6 in varsity competition as Keith Vawters scored on a 6-yard sprint to avoid the shutout.

Dave Brinkerhoff scored the third junior varsity touchdown as he went 25-yards into the end zone and Derrick Dowling accounted for the two-point conversion.

Soph rolls 708 series

Though he's only a sophomore at Belleville High, Michael White has shown he can bowl with the best of them. Carrying a 181 average, White turned in with a 708 series after rolling games of 216, 268 and 224 last week at the Cherry Hill Lanes.

The 15-year-old bowler erased the lanes' high series record of 680 from the boards. He competes in the Downriver Youth Traveling League.

Furies kick up victory

Coach Eddie Trudo's Van Buren Furies' soccer team emerged atop of a 7-4 score, turning back a determined Westland Spaceshots team recently. In a game played in Westland, Mike Cowger, Dave Gresko, and Paul Pollard each scored twice and Kent Butler added a single goal for the winners.

The Spaceshots were led by Dan Gentile who booted in a pair of goals. Don Dunigan and Larry Bozanic each scored once.

The Van Buren kickers remain undefeated in six outings in the Ontario Division of the Great Lakes Soccer League.

New Boston's defense shuts down Airport

Oh, how Coach Tom LaBeau and New Boston Huron's Chiefs would like another crack at undefeated Grosse Ile.

Turning on the defense when needed and putting points on the scoreboard like they've never done before, the Chiefs drubbed Airport 20-6 for their second big Huron Conference victory in as many weeks. Huron tarnished previously undefeated Carlson's record two weeks ago.

"Sure I'd like to play them again," LaBeau said referring to Grosse Ile. (The Islanders beat the Chiefs 20-6 earlier in the season.) "Unfortunately that's not going to happen, not until next year anyway."

What awaits the surging Chiefs is Flat Rock, a 2-3 conference team that will attempt to cool the New Boston club Friday night.

The victory over Airport equalled the number of wins Huron posted in 1978. The Chiefs can clinch at least a .500 season with a victory over Flat Rock.

Huron scored in its first series of plays after the opening kickoff against Airport which couldn't stop the combined rushing efforts of Shawn Slayton, Bob Bokor and Bruce Smith.

At the Airport 14-yard line, Slayton was given the nod by quarterback Dave Satneck and the runningback responded with the go-ahead touchdown. But the lead lasted less than a minute.

After the ensuing kickoff, Dennis Adair pulled off a dazzling 73-yard touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage thanks to an option play. That tied the score at 6-all.

The Chiefs erupted for 12 points in the second quarter and that proved to be the difference in the game.

Bokor scored from the six after a 70-yard sustained drive to put the Chiefs up 12-6 with 9:51 to go, and he lunged over the goal line from the one-yard line with 1:01 left in the first half for the final touchdown. That capped a midfield drive.

Satneck's pass to Rocky Frasier accounted for the two point conversion after the third TD.

Airport successfully controlled the ball most of the second half, however, it wasn't able to capitalize. They never seriously threatened after the initial 12 minutes.

"It was a strange game," LaBeau said. "They had more first downs than we did (14-13) but they had 70-minus yards passing. We didn't have the ball a whole lot in the second half, so we couldn't get anything going. Our line did a good job that first half, though."

Smith rushed for 93 yards in 15 carries and Bokor was close behind with 81 yards on 18 attempts, while one of the reasons why Airport had its problems in the air was the outstanding play of Frasier who was all over the secondary.

FIREPLACE INSTALLATION HOW-TO WEEKEND

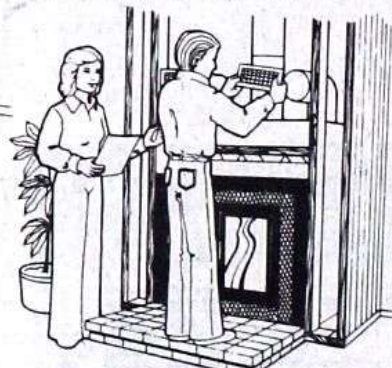

Factory Representatives from FUEGO will install a MODEL IV - B Zero Clearance Built - In, Heat Producing Fireplace. We are adding another Working Fireplace to better show you How to Solve your Home Energy Requirements.

A WEEKEND PROJECT - FOR FUN AND PROFIT

With a Fuego IV, you can now afford the luxury of a real wood burning fireplace. It's the economical answer to cutting fuel bills and increasing the resale value of your home far beyond Fuego's modest price.

Select a desirable location for your Fuego IV. Remember, you can safely place it on a wood floor and against any combustible wall since it is U.L. listed for zero clearance.

Don't worry about expensive masonry work. Just grab your household tools and use the easy-to-follow installation instructions to build the 2x4 framing around your pre-built Fuego IV. The assembled U.L. listed chimney pipe system is also easily installed.

The front of your Fuego IV comes with an attractive grill frame and glass doors. All you need is the final decorating materials—brick or stone facing, wood paneling, tile, wallpaper or paint.

Sit back and relax to the warmth of your beautiful Fuego fireplace!

A complete step by step demonstration will begin at 1 p.m. Sat. Oct. 20th. Our Fuego reps will answer all your questions regarding proper, safe installation. On Sunday and Monday we will finish the complete installation of the fireplace with a natural stone veneer with California drift stone.

Homecoming is sweet for Glenn

continued to roll in the second half. Though junior Greg O'Neil couldn't play tailback because of a slight ankle injury, he made his presence felt on defense with several spectacular plays. One was a beautiful pass interception on the 50-yard line and he raced down the left sidelines to the Thurston 32-yard-line to set up Glenn's next TD.

The Rockets launched four plays in landing on paydirt. Liedel — there's that name again — scored on a one-yard plunge, but it was a 21-yard zig-zag run around right end by QB Discher to the three yard line that brought the happy homecoming crowd roaring to its feet. Johnston kicked the extra point and Glenn led 34-0 at the start of the fourth quarter. Thurston finally managed to put a scoring drive together in the fourth period with quarterback Paul Kostegian passing brilliantly and sub halfback Chuck Dzagio running with determination. Mark Erickson, who also ran well in the drive, capped it with a four-yard plunge off right tackle and Kostegian booted the extra point.

Coach Gordon singled out Liedel, Thornton, Discher and center Russ Hall for fine offensive work, while linebacker Frank Iannello, tackle Fred Dunford and end Bill Dye got praise for their defensive work.

For the winless Thurston squad, Erickson, Kostegian, ends Rich Rudd and Shawn Salisbury, and Darren St. Ledger played extremely well both ways for the Eagles.

Now Glenn gears up for powerful North Farmington which has been stung by consecutive one-point losses to Redford Union and Livonia Franklin. "They'll be ready to play, that's for sure, and we'll have to play a near-perfect game to beat them," Gordon said.

Spartans crush Riverside

scored on Frederick's two-yard drive.
Gregory, who quarterbacked the series, ably used Johnson and Frederick to ground out the yardage.
Teschke went for the two-point conversion but was stopped short of the goal-line.
Cherry Hill's final touchdown drive was aided by a into-the-wind Riverside punt that loss a yard for the Rebels. The Spartans took over on the Riverside 30-yard line midway in the last quarter and with senior John LaScola now quarterbacking scored on Jeff Searcy's three-yard run.

Frederick chalked up 109 yards in nine carries and besides his two touchdown runs he had a 65-yarder called back on him because of illegal procedure. Johnson, called to carry the ball six times, picked up 36 yards.
Gregory connected on four of five passes for 70 yards. Two of those receptions were by Rick Boehm, good for 45 yards.
Johnson also looked good on defense where he accounted for eight solo tackles and two assists. He also sacked the quarterback once and had an interception.
Searcy, who also doubled on defense as a nose guard, had eight solos and three assists, while Gary Bilek came up with six unassisted and two assists. Strong safety Barry Long chipped in with six solos and three assists.

Though they are out of the running for the title, Cherry Hill could take a hold of third place this weekend with a victory over Taylor Kennedy.

"I feel we're evenly matched," Pawloski said. "However, Kennedy has the edge in the kicking game while we have better offensive speed. It should be an interesting game."
The two teams will square off at 2 p.m. on Saturday at Cherry Hill High.

Romulus is winner

those passes not to be caught," mentioned Foley.
Green made crucial contributions to the victory, scoring both TDs and rushing for 68 of the total 87 yards earned by Romulus ballcarriers.
Champaign, who had four unassisted and eight assists, Bob Knight, with six solos and two assists, Golden, Green, who doubled as a linebacker, along with ends Tim Summerfield and Mark Schick, got the job done defensively.

"These kids presented me with the game ball afterwards," Foley said. "I told them I would have to accept it on behalf of my assistant coaches Terry Bird and Dennis Stoh whom, in my opinion, worked very hard with the kids and wanted the win more than anything else."

compared to North's six first downs and 53 yards rushing.
Franklin heads for Redford Union Friday night in hopes of marring the newly-crowned champs thus far perfect record.
"I feel that this was one of the best defensive efforts against North in our school's history," said Vigna, "and this is also the first Homecoming victory since 1975." Can Franklin pull off another 'miracle' Friday night at Redford Union, coach?

"We feel we have a pretty darn good team," Vigna said.
But that didn't answer the question, coach.
"Well, let me put it this way - we'll find out Friday night at R.U."

Wayne tankers stay perfect

Coasting past Taylor Center, 127-41, Wayne Memorial continued its strong bid for the Great Lakes 8 Conference girls' swimming title.
Coach Jim McPartlin's swimmers took nine of the 11 first places en route to their fourth conference win and fifth over-all victory on the season. Their record remains untarnished.
Wayne's next test is Dearborn Fordson, always a threat in athletics.
"They have a solid team again this year," Coach McPartlin said. "The meet should be a good one."
Fordson and Wayne are the best bets to unseat Monroe, the defending champ, from the league throne. Wayne will meet Monroe in two weeks.
Meanwhile, Fordson invades Wayne 7 p.m. Thursday.

Jones wound up with 10 solo tackles and six assists, while Forman had six unassisted tackles and seven assists. Hughley counted six solos and eight assists.
"We were able to move the ball on the ground against them," Coach James said. "so they decided to tighten up their line, leaving them open to our passing attack. This was definitely the best game we have played in recent years."

Zebras nip Parkers

Wayne needed a second half rally to overcome their league opponents who led 24-20 at halftime. But the Zebras, paced by Theresa Callegari who scored a season high 18 points, outscored their hosts 20-10 in the third period and hung on to win.
Wayne's Peggy Stevens also was in double figures with 12.

River Rouge managed to edge Wayne 49-47 in an out of league tilt earlier in the week as Stevens scored 11. Bunny Walker had 10 and Callegari nine.
Wayne had three last minute shots that didn't find their mark. It was close all the way with neither team gaining more than a five-point advantage throughout the contest.

Latest Smoker Research Just In:
MERIT undisputed victor over leading high tars in tests comparing taste and tar level.

Smokers Prefer Merit 3 To 1!

Smokers find the taste of low tar MERIT matches that of high tar cigarettes.

New taste-test results prove it.

Proof: A significant majority of smokers rated MERIT taste as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Proof: Of the 95% stating a preference when tar levels were revealed, 3 out of 4 smokers chose the MERIT low tar/good taste combination over high tar leaders.

MERIT smokers rate low tar MERIT satisfying taste alternative to high tar brands.

New national smoker study results prove it.

Proof: The overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers polled felt they didn't sacrifice taste in switching from high tar cigarettes.

Proof: 96% of MERIT smokers don't miss former high tar brands.

Proof: 9 out of 10 enjoy smoking as much since switching to MERIT, are glad they switched, and report MERIT is the best tasting low tar they've ever tried!

You've read the results. The conclusion is clearer than ever: MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar.

A combination that seems to be attracting more and more smokers every day and—more importantly—satisfying them long term.

Crib brackets recalled

A voluntary recall of plastic brackets used to support the springs on approximately 34,500 full-sized "Babyline" cribs has been announced by the Questor Juvenile Furniture Company of Los Angeles, Calif. The announcement was made in cooperation with the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

In a report to the commission, the firm cited six instances in which the plastic brackets broke, causing the mattress and springs to drop slightly. Two infants have received minor injuries. The plastic "crib-spring hanger brackets" are mounted on each of the cribs' four corner posts to suspend the springs by means of hooks.

The recall affects those brackets used on 29 models of Babyline cribs date-coded in the period from June 1977 through January 1978. Only cribs bearing the following date codes are involved: 677, 777, 877, 977, 1077, 1277 and 178. The date code is on a label on the inside bottom of the crib headboard.

Owners of these cribs should write the manufacturer to obtain a free replacement kit containing metal hanger brackets and installation instructions. Letters should be addressed to Baby Line Furniture, 6235 South Saint Andrews Place, Los Angeles, Calif. 90047. Attention: Corrective Program.

Anyone wishing to verify model numbers and assembly dates may contact CPSC's toll-free hotline at 800-638-8326.

Toy rifles recalled

The F. J. Strauss Company Inc., an importer and distributor with headquarters in New York City, is voluntarily recalling approximately 3,600 toy cork rifles because they may injure children's eyes.

The recall is being conducted in cooperation with the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

According to CPSC staff, children run the risk of serious eye injuries if they remove the gun's muzzle and fire toward their faces, an action which could drive two interior metal rods into their eyes.

These "pushrods," which serve to expel the cork from the toy, normally are protected from extending to their full 8-inch length by small plastic barriers. However, some barriers may be positioned improperly, allowing the metal rods to project completely when the trigger is pulled.

While F. J. Strauss never has received a complaint about the toy, CPSC received a report earlier this year that a 3½-year-old boy suffered eye injuries from an identically constructed toy cork gun made by another manufacturer. All of these models have since been recalled.

Strauss has told CPSC that other firms also have distributed identical toy guns.

The cork guns have been marketed since 1977 in cardboard boxes which are labeled "F. J. Strauss Co. Inc., New York, N. Y. 10010." The cartons also are labeled with the trademark "Straco," and with "Western Double-Barrel Cork Rifle." They sold for approximately $1.99 at various retail outlets.

Consumers should return the guns to the place of purchase for a full refund.

Consumers who have questions about this recall should call CPSC's toll-free hotline at 800-638-8326.

VA to keep medical files

Complete Veterans Administration medical records will be retained indefinitely pending an extensive review of agency standards for coping with the huge volume of paperwork generated by the agency's 172 medical centers while treating millions of hospital and clinic patients each year.

VA chief, Max Cleland, said the review was prompted by his concern over possible long range effects of exposure to radiation and herbicides during military service.

As a result, Cleland said, he has halted the practice, in effect since 1965, of disposing of certain raw medical files 15 years after a veteran's last treatment at a VA medical facility.

Before disposal, the voluminous raw records were digested into a more easily stored and more accessible form and retained for 50 years after the veteran's last contact with VA. No data was lost under the system, he emphasized.

Cleland advised the General Services Administration, which has government wide responsibility for records management, that VA would suspend its congressionally-approved records disposition plan, pending a complete review of possible new medical requirements for the information.

"While no essential medical data is lost under our current disposition process," he said, "I feel it is important that we thoroughly study this subject as it relates to our current records, to make absolutely certain that all records are retained as long as there is any possible use for them."

THE CASE OF THE MISSING MOTORCYCLISTS

Sherlock Holmes solved the Case of the Missing Motorcyclists. They were kicked off public lands because they were too noisy. "Quiet is elementary," he said. When you make noise, you make enemies.

Things to do:

An autumn river float will be held along the Huron River starting at Willow Metropark near New Boston on Saturday at 12 noon.

Canoe enthusiasts should meet at the Big Bend Picnic Area of Willow Metropark for a leisurely float down the river to the nature Metropark. Transportation will be provided back to Willow Metropark.

A limited supply of canoes are available at the Huron River Canoe Rental (phone 782-3633). Vehicle entry permits are required.

For additional information contact the nature center at Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

Fall hours are now in effect for canoe rentals at Hudson Mills and Delhi metroparks, located northwest of Ann Arbor.

Skip's Huron River Canoe Livery, located at Delhi Metropark, is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends only through October. The rates are $12 for a trip from Hudson Mills to Delhi and $7.50 from Dexter to Delhi.

Persons are advised to make advance reservations for canoe rentals and get current information on water levels by contacting Skip's at 769-8686.

This time of year canoeists can enjoy the fall color plus a visit to the Wagner Cider Mill on the bank of the Huron River near the bridge, located near the junction of Huron River Drive and Mast Road in Dexter.

The Hudson Mills Metropark phone number is 426-8211.

A program, entitled "Opening Winter Bird Restaurants" will be presented at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Sunday at 10 a.m.

Naturalist Bob Hotelling will present this 2-hour program on the needs and habits of birds in winter. Favorite foods and different kinds of feeders will be discussed. An indoor session of slides and discussion will be followed by an outdoor observation period.

Participants should bring binoculars and meet at the nature center building. Advance registration is required as vehicle entry permits.

For information or registration contact the nature center at Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

An autumn cruise aboard the Island Queen excursion boat will be held at Kensington Metropark near Milford on Saturday at 8 a.m.

Naturalist Bob Hotelling will discuss the human and natural history of the area during this 1-hour cruise. Participants should bring binoculars and cameras. Meet at the boat rental dock.

Advance registration is required, and there is a charge of $1 per person. Vehicle entry permits also are required.

For information or registration contact the nature center at Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

Members of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), in cooperation with several state and local groups, have announced their sponsorship of the first ever "Target-A-Thon" for charity.

The unique fund-raising activity — with the theme of "We're Aiming To Help" — will feature youngsters shooting air guns and .22 rimfire rifles at official "Target-A-Thon" targets and collecting pledges from friends, neighbors, and relatives according to how well they shoot.

All shooting will be done at carefully supervised events. Some will take place at gun clubs and rifle ranges, while the air gun events are expected to be held at shopping centers, schools and sporting goods stores. Most activities will be held in early December.

After signing up pledges which will be recorded on an official sponsor sheet, the youngsters will shoot at the "Target-A-Thon" event and have their targets signed and verified by a program official. The youngster will then show the verified target to his sponsors and collect the pledges based on the score he shoots. For example, a neighbor might pledge 10 cents for each point scored. If the youngster shoots a 75 at the "Target-A-Thon," that neighbor would then give him a $7.50 contribution to Cerebral Palsy (maximum score is 100 points).

The "Target-A-Thon" events in Michigan are officially endorsed by MUCC, the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Michigan and the National Association of Sports for Cerebral Palsy.

All money collected in Michigan will benefit the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Michigan and the National Association of Sports for Cerebral Palsy; and will be presented during the National Cerebral Palsy Telethon, Jan. 12-13, 1980.

Representatives of local organizations interested in sponsoring or assisting in a "Target-A-Thon" in their communities should write Target-A-Thon, c/o MUCC, Box 30235, Lansing 48909.

Mayor signs proclamation

Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson affixes his signature to the certificate proclaiming Oct. 21-27 as National Business Women's Week. Mildred Artley (left) president of Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) and Irene Whalen, co-chairman of the business women's week committee look on. On Sunday, Oct. 21, members, husbands and guests will breakfast at the Red Apple Restaurant in Belleville before attending services at the United Presbyterian Church at 10:30 a.m. The following day the club will sponsor the Community Blood Drive and on Oct. 25 will attend the autumn dinner at Faith United Methodist Church in Denton where it meets monthly.

Sheila Stabnau exchanges vows with Willard C. Menish

An evening ceremony Sept. 22 with candlelight setting the mood joined in marriage Sheila Joy Stabnau of Belleville and Willard Campbell Menish of Redondo Beach, Calif.

The First United Methodist Church of Belleville was reserved for the six o'clock nuptial rite conducted by The Rev. Joy E. Arthur before some 200 assembled relatives and friends.

Musical selections for the single ring service, "God Only Knows" and "O Perfect Love", were sung by the Chancel Choir of the church with Gwenth Ashe playing organ accompaniment.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stabnau of 88 S. Biggs St., Belleville, Sheila was escorted down the aisle by her father. For her wedding day she selected a toe-touching white chiffon creation fashioned with a scoop neckline, clear bishop sleeves and a removable bolero vest of scalloped Chantilly lace. A circular chapel train added back interest to the dress.

Her full-length veil of silk illusion was outlined in lace and secured by a little lace cap embellished with seed pearling. Completing her bridal finery was a circular bouquet of miniature white carnations, pink roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Suzanne Dawn Stabnau as her sister's maid of honor headed a bridal coterie which included Mrs. Thomas (Judy) Sayre; Karri Fry and Nancy Sommer, all of Belleville.

The quartet appeared in full-length frocks of ice pink silesta designed with spaghetti straps, gathered bodices and little chiffon jackets. They tucked single pink roses in their hair and carried bouquets of miniature burgundy carnations and baby's breath.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. George Menish of 3931 Huntington St., Washington, D.C., the bridegroom chose Joseph Byer of Torrance, Calif. to serve as best man. Groomsmen were Jeffrey Menish of Marina Del Rey, Calif., Quintin Menish of Los Angeles, Calif. and Joseph Kilroy of Boca Raton, Fla., brothers and brother-in-law, respectively, of the bridegroom.

When the receiving line formed in the foyer of the church, Mrs. Stabnau greeted guests in a formal gown of mauve silesta featuring a draped bodice and long sleeves. She wore fresh baby's breath in her hair and carried a single pink rose. Mrs. Menish, the bridegroom's mother, also held a pink rose to contrast with her full-length blue chiffon gown designed with an attached chiffon cape.

A dinner-dance reception for some 260 people followed at Roma's of Ann Arbor. Guests from Atlanta, Ga., Washington, D.C., Los Angeles, Calif., Fairfax, Va., Boca Raton, Fla., Panama City, Panama and Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada were among those welcomed by the bride's brothers, Jeffrey Stabnau of Ypsilanti and Craig Stabnau of Belleville, who were hosts for the occasion. Special guests congratulating the young couple were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Graham of Belleville.

The newlyweds honeymooned enroute to their new home at 211 Yacht Club Way, Redondo Beach, Calif. where the bridegroom is employed by TRW.

A 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Menish was a marketing major at Eastern Michigan University prior to her marriage. Her husband, a 1979 alumnus of the University of Michigan where he received a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering, is currently working towards a master's degree in the same field at the University of Southern California.

The bridegroom's father played host at the rehearsal dinner which took place at Weber's Inn of Ann Arbor.

MAXINE MILLER

For BPW Club

Maxine Miller is 'Woman of the Year'

At the October meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW), the group gave its yearly accolade, "Woman of the Year", to Maxine Miller, a member for the past six years.

Currently the club's finance chairman, Mrs. Miller has also chaired the legislative committee and the rummage sale. Besides being active in BPW, she and her husband, Glen, are members of the Farm Bureau and the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

A native of Willis and one of three sisters, she and her husband have been married for 38 years. Prosperous farmers, they reside at 22160 Elwell Road near Belleville where their two children, Bob and Beverly, were born. Now married, Bob and his wife, Kathy, reside in Belleville and Beverly and her husband, Perry Points, make their home in Howell. Each couple has two children.

Mrs. Miller, the former Maxine Garrod, graduated from Lincoln High School and later attended Eastern Michigan University and Alexandra Beauty College in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Miller, known by many for her music, was formerly organist for the Willis and Belleville Methodist Churches and now plays for services at Roberts Bros. Funeral Home in Belleville. Her hobbies include knitting, crocheting, sewing, cooking and gardening.

The Woman of the Year award was presented Oct. 1 by Mary Ferrett at Faith United Methodist Church in Denton. The honoree's daughter and daughter-in-law were on hand to surprise her on the occasion and join the group for its monthly dinner.

With America's favorite munchie, the apple, taking over the spotlight from the peach, blueberry, strawberry and other cousins who've already had their day-in-the-sun, it's time to think "apple cookery".

With orchards offering lower prices to pick-your-own and even more of a discount for gathering up "drops", every culinary engineer should be gearing her menus to the apple crop.

And if you've never treated your family to homemade applesauce, now's the time. Choose your favorite cooking apple. If you're in doubt about a good one, ask the orchard personnel or contact the Wayne County Extension office nearest you. But do get busy with a batch for dinner tonight.

I, myself, prefer the Cortland or Ida Red varieties, finding they cook up easily and produce a nice color. And, by accident, I learned it's not necessary to stand over a burner, boiling and stirring the stuff, and getting arm burns (from the popping liquid) as a result.

Scrub your apples well, quarter, core and slice (don't peel) and place in a heavy kettle with perhaps a half cup of water to begin with. You can always add more (it's not too easy to siphon off excess liquid) and there's nothing less appealing than watery applesauce!

Bring to a boil, lower heat, cover and simmer until apples get soft. Then put through a foodmill or ricer and pour into individual sauce dishes or into plastic containers for freezing. You'll note we added no sugar — t'aint necessary since it's really tasty and delicious just as it is. If you ARE a sugar freak, you can always add your own when it's eating time.

Those of the old school will also be aware that we didn't re-cook the apples once they were strained. The less cooking, the fresher tasting your results. And make LOTS of the stuff while you're at it (and already in the mess) and freeze the excess to accompany future ham and pork meals.

For a quick dessert treat, ladle warm applesauce into sherbet glasses or any other pretty container, dust with a smidgeon of cinnamon and then top with a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Hm-m-m, no fuss and a meal capper we all enjoy at our house.

But — were we to take a vote for "the" favorite apple dish in our family delegation, it would unanimously be "Apple Dumplings."

There is nothing nicer I can do for my clan than to put together a batch of those truly marvelous (and picture pretty) dumplings. Every cook-book has a recipe, just check the index; if you can't find one, give me a call on Thursdays and I'll help you.

Incidentally, on the night you plan the A.D.'s as a finale, you'll want to make dinner light and low caloric cuz there's just nothing slimming or non-filling about the fruit'n pastry creation. I guarantee your kids, hubby and even the mother-in-law will think you're a real super chef when you lay on those warm and yummy, sweet and cinnamon treats.

If, perchance, you're on the lookout for a delicious cake to serve at bridge club, take to a church bazaar or just have handy for coffee time, here's one my friend, Louise Czajkowski, shared with me years ago — way back when we were having babies together.

APPLE CAKE

1 cup cooking oil

2 cups sugar

3 cups chopped apples

3 cups flour

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon baking soda

1 cup chopped nuts

2 teaspoons vanilla

Mix in order given and pour into a greased 9x12 pan. Bake for 45-50 minutes at 350 degrees. When cool, top with the following: ICING: Combine 1/2 cup oleo and 1 cup brown sugar over low heat until melted; stir and add 1/2 cup evaporated milk. Bring to boil and cook about 2 minutes. Cool, add 1 teaspoon vanilla and spread over apple cake.

If you prefer to eliminate the icing, whipped cream or ice cream is always a great substitute.

Those who lean toward novels with a Washington-Capitol-of-the-Nation scenario might like to get down to the library or out and buy "The Whole Truth".

Written by John Ehrlichman (yep, THAT John Ehrlichman), the book contains rather sensational revelations about the realities of presidential politics and what happens when loyalties and personal interests clash.

Centralizing this explosive novel (which I'll bet didn't add to J.E.'s popularity) is a series of fairly recognizable situations including an attempted coup in South America with a big American corporation and the CIA involved.

Only an "insider" (ex, though he may be) could have written the behind-the-scenes activities of a senate investigating committee; the plush junkets afforded by big business and a dinner with intrigue for dessert aboard the presidential yacht.

I found the book well written and one that held my interest all the way. The only criticism would be in its sudden and rapid wind-up. All at once the villain-hero is rescued by a personality who is never even mentioned until (it seems) Ehrlichman suddenly decides to bring things to a halt and writes in the new character. The ending leaves the reader rather deflated — probably because it stirs up doubts about the leadership in his country.

Don't know when it happened but whoever was responsible for removing that eyesore from the corner of Liberty and East Huron River Drive deserves a little recognition.

How fresh, pretty and neat the area now looks — bet all you neighbors are especially enjoying the new view.

Oh, to have some other property owners clean up their act, too!! All it takes is a little pride in one's city!

Anyone who's seen "Gone With the Wind" (and who hasn't?) can't possibly forget the fluttery character, "Prissy", played so perfectly by Butterfly McQueen. Well — we had occasion to catch Miss Mc Q. in "Showboat" last week at the Powers Center. Would you believe that the 68-year-old Butterfly (who was 25 when she panicked with Miz Scab-lit) STILL has the little girl voice that made her famous?

Uh — what I'm trying to say is — that voice just isn't made for the stage and we all felt somebody was doin' a little capitalizin' ... ?

Seems I've been neglecting a few people of late — not giving them any "ink". Well, I just realized I've occasion right now to acknowledge the electrical togetherness (a quarter century) of AC and DC, two sets of initials which couldn't possibly be more apropos.

THE BOTTOM LINE: A good boss is someone who takes a little more than his share of the blame and a little less than his share of the credit.

Couple among dancers at Village's Festival

By Mrs. Joseph Spring 699-4021

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Quinley of Sumpter Road were among the groups of square dancers who participated at the Autumn Festival held at Greenfield Village in Dearborn Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 6 and 7. Ron Seim and Bill Gracy were the callers for the sets.

Mrs. Robert Robson of Haggerty Road, Mrs. Russell Harris of Robbe Avenue, Mrs. Ruth Carter of Biggs Street, and Mrs. George Bower of Tecumseh returned home on Monday of last week after enjoying a color tour in Northern Michigan for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stevens of East Huron River Drive were overnight guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. Chester Shoup, at Morenci last Saturday, Oct. 6. On Sunday they all attended the Shoup family reunion held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shoup at Middlebury, Ind.

Paula Dolph of Pittsburg, Pa. spent several days last week with her parents, the Albert Dolphs of Edgar Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton of Bedell Street and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Mann of Wayne, enjoyed a pleasant time at Angola, Ind. where they stayed at the Potawatomi Inn over the Oct. 6 weekend.

Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Henry (Marjorie) Potter of Liberty Street were her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard LeMoine with Robert and Craig from Livonia. The occasion was in celebration of daughter, Sarah's birthday. Little 4-year-old Craig remained to spend the night with his grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woodmansee of Gaylord were recent guests of the latter's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hatch of Church Street. Also present for lunch was another aunt, Mrs. Margaret Anderson of Menlo Park Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr of Crowley Street were Sunday dinner guests of the former's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bissell of Anchorville.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Seaman of Savage Road spent several days last week at their cottage at Black River. On Friday evening they were guests of former South Street residents, Mr. and Mrs. John Payne at Mullet Lake.

Mrs. Don Zimmer and children from Charlotte were last weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Robson of Tyler Road. On Saturday Sandra and her friend, Mary McLaughlin of Belleville Road, were in Ann Arbor to attend a quilt show. On Sunday the Zimmers visited the Chester Zimmers of Martinsville Road.

After having been a surgical patient at a Cleveland, Ohio hospital for the past three weeks, Mrs. Don (Madelyn) Blend was discharged Oct. 9 and is now convalescing at their home on Juniper Drive.

Worthy Matron Kay Parker and Worthy Patron Vincent Goodnuff were among many officers and members of Belleville Chapter No. 73, OES, who were in attendance at Grand Chapter sessions held at Kalamazoo Oct. 2-3-4.

Weekend guests at the Denton Road home of Mrs. Henry (Alice) Herkimer were members of her family, Mr. and Mrs. Dewain Watson and family from Potterville and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lorin and family from Lansing. On Saturday they spent the day at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

Saturday evening they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Watson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson and family of Belleville in celebration of Jane Watson's seventh birthday.

Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street was a weekend guest of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Benjamin of Fowlerville. While there she attended a stork shower for a niece, Mrs. Gordon Benjamin of Stockbridge, at the Fowlerville home of Mrs. George Benjamin.

After having been a patient at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne for several days, Donald Osak was able to return to his home on Haggerty Road last Thursday.

Kelly Deline will be a June bride

A summer wedding in 1980 is being planned by Kelly Michelle Deline of Romulus and John Richard Compton of Evert. Announcement of their engagement comes from Allen and Phyllis Deline of 10307 Ozga Rd., Romulus, parents of the bride-elect.

Miss Deline, who works as a secretary at Kelsey-Hayes of Romulus, has been a member of the Romulus Ladies Softball League for the past four years. She and her fiancé both graduated from Romulus High School, she in 1977 and he in 1974.

A 1979 alumnus of Eastern Michigan University, the prospective bridegroom is now taking graduate classes at the School of Optometry at Ferris State College in Big Rapids. His parents are John and Janice Compton of 1958 Kingston, Pinckney, formerly of Romulus.

A June 29 altar date has been set.

MISS DELINE

Charles has a brother

The birth of their second son, Waynard L. Shreve III, is announced by Cheryl and Waynard L. Shreve Jr. of 16231 Oak Tree Lane, Romulus. The 7 lb., 8 oz. infant arrived at 1 p.m. Aug. 29 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, his length being 21 1/2 inches.

The new brother of Charles Levant Shreve, who's 2-years-old, he is also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Waynard L. Shreve Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Burl Chadwick, all of Romulus.

The boys' great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Percy Shreve of Romulus and Mrs. Georgia Dillard of Detroit.

UHT Memorial Funeral Home

"WHY AM I AFRAID TO TALK ABOUT DEATH?" HAROLD REDISKE JR. You should know first that your fears are common ones which have been fostered for many centuries. Till recent years the subject has been taboo and "sweet under the rug" till it affects us personally. Only recently has there been substantial scientific research on the subject.

We don't talk about death because we fear it and we know so little about it. In the interest of mental health, such feelings need to be changed. Public education, based on our new psychological and medical data, offer us our greatest help.

These educational helps are becoming more and more available to us. The librarian (and we) can recommend some very fine books written about death-and-dying; thanatology courses are offered in many schools; many churches now offer classes and discussion groups on the subject.

Here at Uht Memorial Funeral Home, we can arrange a tour of our funeral home and an explanation of our services for you and your friends. We can also be your personal consultants to answer some of your concerns about death.

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was the setting Aug. 18 for the double ring ceremony which made Deborah T. Sinkiewicz of Belleville the bride of Rollie R. Culp of Wayne.

Rings and vows were exchanged before The Rev. Raymond Skoney and some 85 relatives and friends. For the occasion the altar was adorned with white mums and the pews with white satin markers and white roses. Trumpet, flugel horn and organ music was provided by Dick Miltaz.

The four thirty wedding united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sinkiewicz of 358 Liberty St., Belleville, and the son of Mrs. Dorothy Culp of Livonia.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, the bride appeared in a white organza gown defined with lace and seed pearling on the scoop neckline and chapel train.

Her lace-trimmed illusion veil drifted to floor length from a lily of the valley headpiece, the flowers matching those in her bridal bouquet which also was comprised of white orchids, white roses and defenbachia leaves.

Two shades of green were chosen for the outfits worn by the bridal attendants. The bride's sister, Teena M. Sinkiewicz, for her role as maid of honor donned an emerald green frock, designed in the A-line mode with a matching jacket. She carried a bouquet of silk green mums, white roses and defenbachia leaves and wore a wreath of matching flowers for her headress.

Mrs. Chris A. Moore of Roseville and Mrs. Judy Jarskey of Redford wore identical headpieces and Nile green gowns and held bouquets of silk green mums, white roses, prayer plant leaves and trailing ivy. All the bouquets, corsages and boutonnieres were arranged by the bride.

Youngsters in the bridal party were Jim Murray, the son of Mrs. Ramona Murray of Belleville, who performed as ringbearer, and his sister, Leah, who was flowergirl along with Lynn Roach, the daughter of Mrs. Sarah Roach of Redford. The two girls wore long yellow frocks with pleated skirts and carried baskets filled with green mums. They, too, wore floral wreaths in their hair.

Craig A. Moore of Roseville carried out the duties of best man with Bill Ramp of Ypsilanti and Lee McCaffery of Ann Arbor serving as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sinkiewicz chose an apricot qiana gown with a voile cape trimmed in ostrich feathers. In lieu of a corsage she wore apricot lilies in her hair. Pearl gray qiana with a voile overskirt was the choice of Mrs. Culp, the bridegroom's mother, whose corsage of apricot lilies was pinned at the shoulder.

Some 200 guests congratulated the newlyweds at their dinner-dance reception at the PNA Hall. The wedding cake was a gift of the bride's cousin, Loretta Radisovich of Belleville.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Culp spent their wedding night at the Marriot Inn of Ann Arbor and plan a four weeks honeymoon to Spain, Italy and Greece next April. They are now residing at the bridegroom's residence, 35404 Brush St., Wayne.

Debbie, who holds a bachelor of fine arts degree from Eastern Michigan University, is currently an ultra sound student at Sonographics in Troy. Her husband is a 1968 alumnus of Crestwood High School in Dearborn.

The rehearsal dinner, with the bridegroom's mother as hostess, was held at Nickerson's in Belleville.

At Greenfield Village

'A Walk in Edison's Footsteps'

Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum will offer a full day of activities Oct. 21 in celebration of their 50th Anniversary and the 100th Anniversary of Edison's invention of incandescent light.

"A Walk in Edison's Footsteps" — that day only — is a self-guided tour which will lead visitors through several Edison-related buildings ending at his Menlo Park, N.J., Laboratory complex, where Edison perfected his incandescent lamp. The century-old steam engine which powered the first residential electric lighting will be in operation in the Menlo Park Machine Shop.

There will be free anniversary cake and punch in the Village Town Hall and a pot-pourri of special attractions, including a telegrapher operating in Smith's Creek Station and special tin, pewter and wrought iron demonstrations.

In Henry Ford Museum the Edison film, "The Endless Search" and the Village and Museum anniversary film, "A Home For Our Heritage," will be shown in the Theater.

An interpreter will describe highlights of the Museum's extensive Edison collection at the Lighting and Communications Focal Point and the bulb which Edison made when he recreated his invention in 1929 will be on exhibit nearby.

Edison's 1889 electric car is one of the Edison-related artifacts on exhibit in the Museum's new Interpretive Center. Other items visitors can see in the Interpretive Center include a miniature model of the Menlo Park Machine Shop that is in the Village and a model of the first central power station, which was located on Pearl Street in New York City.

Souvenir envelopes with 12-cent Ford and three-cent Edison stamps and a commemorative postmark will be available at the Village's Phoenixville

Post Office, one of the oldest registered post offices in the area. Special commemorative medals will also be available at the Post Office.

Highlighting the "Walk in Edison's Footsteps" will be the Menlo Park Complex, the world's first industrial research laboratory, where Edison spent his most creative years, from 1876 to 1884, and where such major inventions and discoveries as the first practical incandescent lamp, the phonograph, the electric pen (forerunner of the mimeograph), the carbon button telephone and the electric railway were made.

While visitors will not be able to go up to the second floor of the main laboratory building on Oct. 21 due to preparations being made for an evening telecast, they will see the upstairs and historic film of Edison at the laboratory in 1929 via television monitors on the first floor.

Other interpreted Walk stops include the Sarah Jordan Boarding House, the first house lighted by Edison's incandescent lamp, Edison's grandparent's home from Vienna, Ontario, the oldest clabbord house in the province and the Smith's Creek, Michigan, Railway Station where Edison was ejected from a train as a boy when he caused a fire in a baggage car. As on Oct. 21, 1929, the daytime public activities will be followed by a private banquet during which the invention of the incandescent lamp will be recreated. The speaker at the banquet will be Dr. Philip Handler, president of the National Academy of Sciences.

Playtime

What's it all about?

There's no better time for Playtime. That's why Associated Newspapers is bringing to you this all-around entertainment section each week for all our many Western Wayne County Readers.

Each week you'll be able to turn to Playtime to find out what's happening in your area. For weekly television listings, Playtime will inform you of the upcoming weeks TV Entertainment, beginning Thursdays through Fridays.

Western Wayne County's live entertainment circuit is growing with each new nightclub lounge and restaurant that opens its doors.

Center Stage, in Canton Township, brought the public's attention to the western tier of Wayne County, and with it, more demand for news about the special top-notch, headliner entertainers now appearing at the entertainment complex.

Disco dancing is still the rage among the "in crowd" with every night a new experience. Maggos Disco Dancing, in Canton Township, Paddles in Belleville feature expanding activities.

Discovery. That will be another obligation Associated Newspapers will meet when it seeks out local talents appearing at some of Western Wayne County's nightspots.

Or if you feel you know of someone who deserves a special review of Associated Newspapers, drop us a line.

We want to keep you in the know, be it the live entertainment circuit, or just letting you know what movie flick is playing, when and where.

The "big dozen" movie houses scattered your way make going to the movies a treat, not a chore. Especially when the movie listings will be within an arms reach when you reach for the Playtime section.

Now if all this doesn't appeal to your tastes— you'd much rather just read about the nightlife— then Playtime is your best bet.

Watch for our special feature on a special place or entertainer in the Playtime section. Each week will be your week, compliments of Associated Newspapers.

CINDY SAYS

Crenna becomes cop, Bergman waxed & more

By CINDY ADAMS

NEW YORK —Richard Crenna copped the award of honorary cop, bestowed upon his law-abiding bones as a result of playing a detective in Dimension Pictures' "Stone Cold Dead," which was filmed in Toronto. It was the Toronto police who honored him.

Ingrid Bergman will be immortalized in hot wax. Spoony Singh is sticking her in his Hollywood Wax Museum alongside Humphrey Bogart ... Dean Paul Martin is flying from the coast for a fundraiser for Ronald Reagan in New Jersey ... Since friz is out and the classy head in, Barbra Streisand just ordered a hat from milliner Cesar Rubio ... That little Malibu shack Sylvester Stallone recently made a down payment on set him back a million dollars.

Ida Lupino on Broadway? Maybe David Black shipped her a drama which she's reading ... Maureen O'Hara, who lost her husband this year as well as her best friend, John Wayne, made it to Ireland to commune with where it all began for her ... "The Human Fly," George Willig, whom you'll recall crept the length of the World Trade Center, is now tiptoeing in softer places. Willig announced happily that he is currently being romanced and adored by loads of females and is, right now, "deciding upon my many offers of marriage."

George Burns is busier than ever. He had to turn down Her Majesty's invitation to head the Royal Variety One Nighter in London next month. Couldn't spare the time ... Streisand's fella, Jon Peters, is filming a country club comedy, "Caddyshack" with Chevy Chase, Rodney Dangerfield and Ted Knight at Rolling Hills Country Club in Fort Lauderdale.

Raquel Welch's gorgeous nostrils will flare heavily when she does a shot of real drama on a "Rockford Files" segment soon ... Peter Falk's looking to put back on that old raincoat again for a few more "Columbo" specials. Telly Savalas is also itchy to do another "Kojak" or two.

Author Gore Vidal is going to immortalize Abraham Lincoln's personal life — the wife and kiddies and all that — for an NBC mini-series ... John Wayne's son is writing daddy's bio ... Singer Crystal Gayle was incognito at the China Bowl. Nobody noticed the pretty brunette.

Margaret Truman's mystery, which is set in the White House, will be published next year by Arbor House.

TV TATTLE

Gary Coleman on ice, frozen stiff for 500 years, at his request?

That's the way it will be when the 11-year-old perpetual-motion machine — NBC's headliner on "Diff'rent Strokes" — guest-stars on an upcoming episode of "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century."

"Buck Rogers is one of the good guys," says Gary, who saw the theatrical release of the premiere. "I really liked the movie, so I asked if I could be in one of the episodes. I think it'll be a lot of fun."

Gary will guest-star as Hieronymus Fox, a child prodigy cryogenically preserved in the 20th century to help save the post-nuclear holocaust world of the 25th century. The episode, "On The Trail of the Cosmic Whiz Kid," will air in November.

No matter what else she ever does, Fay Wray, who starred in movies 56 years ago, will always be remembered for one role: the heroine in the 1933 film, "King Kong," who got to say over and over that unforgettable line, "Aaaaaahhh!"

It's been a long time since Miss Wray has done any acting, but she is back in front of the cameras with a role in the upcoming CBS dramatization of "Gideon's Trumpet," the Anthony Lewis book about the Supreme Court decision guaranteeing criminal defendants the right to legal counsel.

Today Miss Wray is still quite fond of the big gorilla and the skills that went into his creation. "I must say that whenever I see the fight between Kong and the other beast, whatever his name was, I am always excited," she said.

Debby Boone, who rose to the top of the record charts two years ago with one of the all-time recording industry hits, "You Light Up My Life," will headline two one-hour variety specials on NBC.

The first special will be telecast in February, 1980; the second a year from now.

Commercial networks used to broadcast concerts, drama and such, before they discovered the money to be made churning out junk food for the mind. Now NBC has borrowed a clue from PBS and has scheduled a series of outstanding cultural events specially produced for live, prime-time presentation.

The first of these broadcasts will be a concert by the New York Philharmonic under its music director, Zubin Mehta, offering a tribute to the great maestro, Arturo Toscanini. It will be televised Jan. 9, 1980.

All the events will originate from NBC's historic Studio 8H in New York City's Rockefeller Center and will be titled "Live from Studio 8H."

The Children's Television Workshop will introduce a new program for kids, ages 8 to 12, in January, called "3-2-1 Contact." Using a formula similar to their successful "Electric Company" and "Sesame Street," "3-2-1 Contact" will teach science to young viewers at home and can be used for classroom teaching.

A beautifully executed full-color magazine (with the same title) is being launched next month, sold on newsstands and by subscription. The monthly magazine will reinforce the show's lessons and include special features, such as interviews with men and women in science-related fields, experiments, models, puzzles and games.

And on NBC, which seems determined to take on CBS for the honor of "classiest" network, "Hot Hero Sandwich," a new kids' series about the fun and frustration of growing up, will premiere Saturday, Oct. 20.

United Methodist presents Bonfim

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH OF WAYNE is announcing a SUPER-WEEK-END with singer-guitarist-minister-recording artist RICK BONFIM on October 26, 27, and 28. Rick will lead a three day music evangelism program which will begin on Friday evening, Oct. 26 with a program entitled "ALMOST ANYTHING GOES." On the final day he will present a MUSIC-MEDIA CONCERT in which both the media and his music are presented simultaneously. The theme for the three day experience is "COMMITMENT IN—TERMS."

RICK is an ordained minister serving in the area of YOUTH MINISTRIES throughout the United States for the last 15 years. He comes from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, where he was influenced by the Brazilians Luiz Bonfa and Vinicious de Moraes, popular composers.

A gifted performer, Rick, with a record of over 2,000 concerts of contemporary religious and classical music, singing, playing and sharing with thousands in 45 states and 6 countries. He has recorded 8 LP albums, the latest, "MY LIFE HAS TAKEN A NEW WAY" with Mission Records of Nashville, Tennessee.

He is a graduate from Valdosta State College with a B.A. in Psychology, Emory University with a M.A. in Divinity, University of Georgia with a B.A. in Journalism and is currently working at the same University on a Masters degree in Speech Communication.

Rick appeared last summer at the 1979 Detroit Annual Conference in Adrian, Michigan. He was also at the Metropolitan United Methodist Church in Detroit in September where he was well received. His music is communicative and expressive and his faith puts a spark into every note, producing a crystal interpretation of every song. The love of Jesus Christ for everyone is expressed with confidence and sensitivity.

The program for the week-end includes covered-dish dinners on both Friday and Saturday evenings followed by Rick's program at 7:30 P.M. The MUSIC-MEDIA CONCERT will be presented on Sunday Morning in the regular Worship Service.

A Youth Rally for all the youth on the Ann Arbor District of the United Methodist Detroit Conference is planned for Saturday afternoon, Oct. 27, at 2:00 P.M. to be held at First United Methodist Church in Wayne so as to share RICK with the neighboring Churches.

All meetings are open to all people.

TV PEOPLE

As realistic as the Cosby Kids might seem, both to adults and to children, only three characters are based on actual people. The rest of the youngsters are the product of Bill Cosby's vivid imagination, fueled by his boyhood memories. They are snippets of people here and there, pasted together to form a Mudfoot or a Dumb Donald.

The antics of the Cosby Kids are depicted in "The Fat Albert Halloween Special," to be rebroadcast Monday, Oct. 22, on CBS.

As comedian Cosby explained, only he, his younger brother Russell and his mother are more-or-less portrayed accurately in the animated special.

"A few are total inventions created to fill a specific comedic need," Cosby said. "Most, like Fat Albert and Weird Harold, are composite caricatures of people I knew in my early years."

It takes a special talent to keep childhood memories alive and translate them into words, but Cosby is successful at it, delighting nightclub and television audiences with tales of his growing up in Philadelphia.

It takes yet another talent to go one step further — to take those words and give them another life, through animation. The artists responsible for creating the Cosby Kids worked closely with

Bill Cosby

Cosby, and with good reason. Cosby explained: "I was the only one who really knew what they looked like. They were up there in my head, filed way back in my memory."

The characters Cosby uses repeatedly in his comedy monologue were relatively easy to bring to life — Cosby has described them often and in detail. Others had to be visualized from scratch. These were "designed by committee" in conferences between Cosby and the artists.

As Cosby explained, "When you're a stand-up comedian in a nightclub or on television, you're a talking cartoonist. You paint images in the audience's heads. Interpreting those diverse images into one standard concept is tricky."

STARVIEW

Second generation actors try their wings

By RUTH THOMPSON

Kids growing up in show business: What does it do for them and to them? And does anybody worry about it? Yes. Especially parents who are themselves headliners.

The topic came up during a talk with Chick Vennerio who has now cracked the big leagues as one of the three male leads in the movie "Yanks," and who will guest star later this season in three episodes of ABC's "Vegas," for which his wife, Joanne Di Vito has also been signed as choreographer. The third member of the family, 10-month old Nicole, is also raring a paycheck from her first two commercials. And that's what has Chick fretting.

Bringing out the snapshots he apologized. "I sure sound like the proud father, don't I? But look at her. That black hair with those blue eyes. She's a happy baby." And she doesn't even know she's a wage-earner (with the money going into trust for her own use later on). "Producers have to be very careful with babies. They can't be under the lights long. I'd say up to five years old, when she goes to school, maybe it's all right."

After that? "Nothing more until she's out of college. Then she can make her own decision. I don't like what I've seen with too many child actors."

It's possible, of course, that when she gets to her teen years, Nicole may be baffled by Chick's dictum. Television and film star, Lloyd Bridges, remembers his sons chafed at what they considered his unreasonable non-encouragement. "I just wanted them, as well as myself, to be sure it was what they really wanted, and that they'd work hard to be the best." Jeff and Beau are now stars in their own right. And — in a family-harmony note — Lloyd and Beau are currently together in "The Fifth Musketeer."

Stephanie, Zimbalist, said,

"Just be the best" was her father's dictum, too. But it seems to have caused her no pressures, and last year they both appeared in the NBC mini-series, "The Best Place To Be," though they had no scenes together. Efram Zimbalist, Jr. played Donna Reed's romantic interest. Stephanie played her daughter.

According to 21-year old Lorenzo Lamas, his mother, Arlene Dahl, did not discourage his acting aspirations. Neither did his father, Fernando Lamas, the actor who recently has proven himself the kind of easy raconteur that TV talk show hosts invite back whenever he's available.

But — and this seems to have proved to Lorenzo that his dad cared — the senior Lamas and Lorenzo's stepmother, Esther Williams, put him through some readings to see if basic talent was there. One of Lorenzo's first professional jobs was an episode of "Switch" with Eddie Albert and Robert Wagner, directed by Fernando Lamas.

Dan O'Herlihy and his son, Gavan, struck a nearly perfect family deal with the PBS special, "Beneath the Laughter," a special about Mark Twain. In it, the senior O'Herlihy portrays Twain at 75. Gavan at age 30.

Television will have to wait a while, however, to see another second generation newcomer because he's preparing for a Broadway debut in a show called "Little Lies." He has to live down the famous name he inherited. Harry Lillis Crosby, 3rd, Bing's son.

Before his father's death, Harry, his siblings and their mother were part of Bing's variety act. But, as Kathryn Crosby said, "We did it because Bing wanted us along. But we didn't have time to prepare." Now young Harry has made the time and for the past two years has studied at London's Speech and Drama Academy.

STARVIEW

By RUTH THOMPSON

Actresses are bitten by directing bug

Twenty-five years ago Ida Lupino was a rarity: a successful actress who wanted to direct ... and did. She had range, too, from somber movies to light television comedy, including most episodes of the "Mr. Adams and Eve" series in which she starred. Few of her peers, however, emulated her.

But times have changed. And the list of actresses who endorse the Lupino credo lengthens daily.

Already a veteran at directing is Elaine May, whose first fame was as an improvisational comedienne teamed with Mike Nichols. One of her early successes was the film, "The Heartbreak Kid." Her leading man was Charles Grodin, whom she coaxed back to acting after he had settled into a behind-the-scenes career as a director. And look what that did to his life. Currently, he's the one the critics praise in "Sunburn," the newest Farrah Fawcett movie.

Joan Darling, the sassy secretary on the old "Owen Marshall" series, is now in the acclaimed category as a director, with multiple Emmy nominations to her credit. No more acting for her.

Not exactly a newcomer to directing is Nancy Walker who has called the shots on occasion for television episodes. What is new is her first venture into a big budget theater-release vehicle, for which she's been on location in Manhattan discos. "Not my scene," she has said. But it seems her fresh view is just what Allan Carr wanted for "Can't Stop the Music."

Anne Bancroft, who finished directing her first film

("Fatso" for Fox) is reported delighted with her second career and wants to continue.

Oscar-winning Joanne Woodward, who has said repeatedly that she likes challenges, is reported ready to direct Henry Fonda in "Family."

Another fine, serious actress, currently directing is Lee Grant, and with a sense of mission, in her case. She was recruited for the job by her friend, Mary Beth McCarthy Yarrow, the wife of singer-composer Peter Yarrow. Mrs. Yarrow is the producer of "The Wilma 8," the true story of women bank employees who lost their jobs when they pressured for equal pay and promotions with men.

Dyan Cannon, already an Oscar winner, told us directing big films is a goal she has set for herself.

Somebody who wants to do it all is Jennifer O'Neil who early this year announced she was writing the script, plus some songs for a movie, "Fanny and the White Knight," which she will produce, direct and star in. Oh yes, one thing more: The locale is her own Westchester estate.

Penny Marshall isn't that ambitious. But she, too, has been bitten by the "I want to direct" bug and used part of her hiatus from "Laverne and Shirley" to direct a television pilot.

The list keeps growing and growing. The newest hopeful? Diana Ross. She doesn't have a property in mind yet, apparently, but the gleam is in her eye. The actress-singer is quoted, however, as saying directing will be a career addition for her. She has no intention of phasing out her career as a performer.

TV PEOPLE

"The three largest producers of documentary films for television are NBC, CBS and David Wolper," said Time magazine, labeling the producer "Mr. Documentary."

In the last 10 years, Wolper has developed an international reputation as the foremost producer of documentary films, while also establishing himself as one of the most astute businessmen in the industry.

Wolper, who has made over 500 films, which have won more than 150 awards (including Oscars, Emmys and Golden Globes), is one of the best-known filmmakers in the business.

Although his name isn't a household word, many of his projects are. They include "National Geographic Specials" (27), "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" (8), "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," "Chico and the Man" comedy series, "Welcome Back, Kotter" series, "Victory at Entebbe" and, of course, the "Roots" mini-series.

Born in New York City in 1928, Wolper first stood out among his classmates as a superb athlete, lettering in both baseball and swimming.

He also had a love of show business. He and a classmate assembled what they thought was the best group of high school musicians in the city. But one after another, their auditions flopped and the band never got its first job.

At the University of Southern California Wolper studied

HOROSCOPE by Aboude

ARIES March 21-April 20

You gain ground in work if you've kept up on current events. You get the results you've expected if you've put your best foot forward. This weekend is the essential part of your plan.

TAURUS April 21-May 21

Don't try to run before you walk! Become expert at the task you're involved in before you move on to better and bigger things. Employment areas are highlighted this week.

GEMINI May 22-June 21

Get yourself together and figure for yourself what's important and what can wait. Your priority is to get ahead and accomplish that goal; you won't get there procrastinating.

CANCER June 22-July 23

Direct your attentions to home affairs. There is a loved one you should be concerned about. Don't hesitate or be afraid you show any weakness by showing emotion.

LEO July 24-August 23

Strengthen relationships with those related to you. The effort you make is small but the results are large! Go ahead as planned, but don't forget to include loved one.

VIRGO August 24-Sept. 23

You have to make time to relax and study. Examine the situation and use your better judgement to find the solution. It's there if you let down your defenses to see it!

LIBRA Sept. 24-Oct. 23

Don't mistake a close friendship for love at this point. It's not likely to turn into a relationship like you imagine, so don't ruin it by pushing for something not in the stars!

SCORPIO Oct. 24-Nov. 22

You may have found that you've blamed the wrong person for the wrong thing. Apologize! Don't let your ego get the best of you and bring out the worst of you!

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23-Dec. 21

Be bendable! Don't close your mind to things you haven't even tried. And if you have tried before, try again. This time you're bound to succeed! Pay attention to making leisure time valuable.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 20

Don't rush things! Take your time and do it right! Don't pass the buck or you'll surely be passing the compliments you need to hear so badly right now.

AQUARIUS Jan 21-Feb. 19

Before you embark on any adventure, be sure you have your facts straight! Do some research, you're sure to uncover some things not known to the public. Use this to your advantage.

PISCES Feb. 20-March 20

You need an answer, but the problem includes others than yourself. Consult with them before you make any final decisions!

A MESSAGE FROM DR. GREGG

WHAT YOU OUGHT TO KNOW ABOUT ON THE JOB INJURIES

The welfare of the American workingman is of great importance to all members of our society. As a result, extensive research has been done to study all aspects of occupational injuries.

On the job injuries, which cost American businesses 100 million man hours annually, represent a tremendous loss in production and revenues.

But our greatest concern is with the pain and anxiety suffered by the American workingman — our family, friends and neighbors — when such injuries occur.

The most common occupational injury is sacroiliac strain. It occurs when the sacrum or tailbone slips from its normal position in relationship to the bones of the pelvis. There is extensive muscular and ligamentous strain. The pain is excruciating and movement of the legs is restricted. Often the sciatic nerve becomes involved which produces even greater disability.

A person suffering from sacroiliac strain assumes a bent forward position. Any attempt to stand tall results in a sharp and stinging pain. This type of strain is serious. If unattended a sacroiliac strain can lead to chronic weakness of the region.

Almost as common as sacroiliac strain is spinal strain, or what we often call a "wrenched back." This injury results from improper lifting, straining when pushing heavy objects and poor working posture. It can be felt anywhere along the spine. There may be an injury to one or more vertebrae. If the strain occurs in the upper back, shoulders and arms may become involved. There is muscular tension and soreness. Any type of motion causes increased pain and all positions, whether sitting, standing or lying, may be uncomfortable.

Spinal and sacroiliac strain are only two of the disabling conditions a worker may suffer with as a result of an on the job injury. But since back injuries account for one-tenth of the total time loss injuries in industry, it is this area which chiropractic can achieve great success. Chiropractic attention will quickly reveal the involved vertebrae and corrective adjustments will bring about a quick relief of the symptoms and a rapid correction of the disorder.

The spine is the life line of the body and good general health depends upon good spinal health. If you or one of your loved ones are hurt on the job, consult Gregg Chiropractic Life Center immediately. Modern scientific chiropractic procedures reduce suffering, time loss and the possibility of permanent serious injury.

"DIZZINESS AND HEADACHES GONE!"

We both had health problems that made day-to-day living unbearable. We saw the articles about Dr. Gregg's clinic and decided to give chiropractic a try.

My wife had dizziness and bad spine and neck problems. My problems were hemorrhoids, migraine headaches and back problems.

After six to eight weeks of treatment, I noticed great improvements. My wife's spinal condition took almost a year to correct.

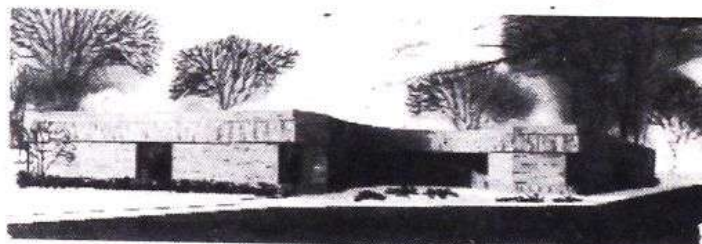

We now find we have a more active life and we are in better health through those Michigan winters.

We think everyone should see a Chiropractor. Children love it, why don't older people try it! There is everything to gain!

Thank you!

Time to organize

It is the smart bride-elect who organizes her time so that shopping for a gown and all those other appointments are kept during this very important time of her life, avoiding a nightmare of confusion.

It's simpler to keep ahead of wedding planning, if you follow these steps:

(1) Keep track of your appointments on a kitchen bulletin board that is divided into half hour increments like a daily desk calendar. Begin with breakfast, log the time you must leave the house and then fill in the time slots until dinner.

(2) On that same calendar list your departure times. Cross out the time you'll be away from the house, but do have something listed for when you return, like a cup of coffee while you address some of your wedding invitations.

(3) List all the telephone calls for the day, and instead of interrupting other work each time you think of someone, make them in groupings. If one line is busy, go onto the next call. Then check off completed calls and put uncompleted calls on the next days list.

(4) Make a list of the day's errands. Plan your stops systematically. If the florist is located between the photographer and the dressmaker, visit each establishment in order. Doubling back is a time waster.

(5) List all the items you must purchase, such as something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue, veils for bridesmaids, etc. Check the items off as you buy them. This saves time in hunting through boxes to make sure you haven't forgotten anything.

Something to set every fair lassie a-leaping!

Almost everyone is familiar with the tradition connected with Leap Year — there's hardly a high school in the country that doesn't hold a Leap Year dance (or a yearly Sadie Hawkins dance) when every young gal gets a chance to do the chasing and courting! But the original meaning of Leap Year had a far more serious tone.

In 1288, a law was passed in the Highlands of Scotland which offered an opportunity to all "mayden ladies" which would have made today's feminists stand up and cheer!

During the Leap Year the Scottish maidens had the legally encouraged right to propose to the men of their choice. Tradition had it that if the Highlander refused his proposing lassie, he was faced with more than a wee bit of a fine!

France later picked up on this tradition, and by the 15th Century it had become a legal custom.

Today's bride combines both old and new

Individuality is keyword

By SYDNEY BRANCH
Metro Newspaper Services

Of all the ceremonies of life, the wedding is without a doubt the most festive, joyous, and the best-loved. No matter how much times may change and customs vary, the expression of love, faith, and trust found in the wedding ceremony is a constant source of inspiration.

Even with the current trend toward alternate life-styles that do not involve the commitment of marriage, statistics prove that marriages are as popular as ever, and there has been an increase in the 70's in people "tying the knot."

Today's couples have more opportunities than ever to enrich this vital ceremony of life with their own personal expressions, and make their wedding truly the most meaningful event of their lives.

Gone are the days of the standard-looking bridal gown, the days when Lohengrin was the only bridal march to be heard, the days when couples had little choice but to promise to love, honor and obey — even though they felt there was so much more to be said.

The clergy and marriage counselors alike now encourage couples to find the music and words for their wedding ceremony which truly express what they feel for each other and their future together. If they decide that the traditional bridal chorus and church vows are just what they want, that's fine. But in their search they will have gained from the rewarding experience of creating a joint definition of their own future plans.

This new freedom to modify, even break away from the traditional, carries through to the dress, reception plans, gift giving and honeymoon styles of today's newlyweds.

Color is appearing in today's wedding dresses, dresses which may vary from very formal to short and simply smashing, from frilly and laced to tailored and sleek.

Receptions range from simple tea and cake gatherings to exotic banquets — even sit-down dinners — with all kinds of new and different delicacies; but whatever the budget and size, all is done with a special personal flair.

Guests are spending more time in the selection of a gift for the newly-wedded couple, concentrating on individuality and seeking out presents that are true reflections of the new couple's life-style.

All in all, the key word for today's wedding is personal, with all the emphasis placed on making each and every aspect of the wedding ceremony a vital expression of the two distinct personalities who have decided to make that most loving and giving of commitments.

It is a delightful occasion for all involved, and should reflect both the joy and dignity which have always marked this special ceremony of life.

Diamonds cherished through-out time

How would you like to own a chunk of crystalized lightning, a capsule of the sun, or an eternal gem of light?

It's quite possible you do, for these are all the ancient names for the diamond.

At least where diamonds are concerned, there's quite a lot in a name. The word "diamond" derives from the Greek "adamas," meaning unconquerable — and it's a fact that early gem cutters failed to tame the world's hardest stone with their primitive tools.

Since then, the diamond has symbolized unconquerable virtue and victory over the forces of evil.

The Greeks thought that the stone could curb violent anger, dispel needless worry — even restore sanity to a disturbed mind.

During the Middle Ages, diamonds were supposed to protect wearers from pestilence, plague and enemy plots. When worn on the left arm, the gems were thought to effectively chase away evil spirits.

There was only one catch — the diamond's owner had to be virtuous. Sinful thoughts or deeds might cause the stone to lose its power, as well as its luster.

Because of its association with victory, the diamond has often been worn by military men. Medieval knights carried diamonds into battle to increase their manly strength and courage. Following this tradition, Napoleon had France's great Regent diamond mounted on the hilt of his sword.

Love, not war, is the diamond's main symbolism now — but it wasn't always that way. Before the mid-15th century, diamonds were worn almost exclusively by men and seldom given as love tokens, but in 1437, a French beauty named Agnes Sorel dared to wear a diamond necklace to a royal ball. Tradition says she captivated King Charles VII, and launched a new feminine fashion.

The diamond became a symbol of romantic love in 1477, when Archduke Maximilian of Austria gave the first diamond engagement ring to pretty, young Mary of Burgundy.

Today, more than a million American women get diamond engagement rings each year, not to mention all the wives receiving diamonds as anniversary and birthday gifts.

But a growing number of women these days also give diamond jewelry to their menfolk, as diamonds become an increasingly popular accent for men's rings, tie pins, cuff links and watches. After 500 years of being a girl's best friend, the diamond has finally been rediscovered by men.

Few stones have been surrounded by more or stranger superstitions than the diamond. People once believed that the gems could be located only at night, that they would grow in size if left under the ground, and that magnets could not function in their presence.

The ancient Hindus thought diamonds were formed by lightning striking rocks, and some Europeans even theorized that the stones could mate and produce baby "rocks."

Even if diamonds can't reproduce, they still generate more interest and excitement than any other mineral known to man. As the favorite gemstone of millions of people, the diamond remains the unconquerable King of Gems.

Don't be left at the gate — have your passports prepared

If you and your fiancé are planning a honeymoon abroad, you will need to do some extra planning and pre-nuptial appointment-making to be sure that you don't spend your first hours of bliss trapped in a customs office for insufficient documentation!

You should apply for your passports at least two months before your departure, in order to allow extra time for processing.

Because the bride is not legally a "Mrs." until the wedding, you will more than likely be traveling with separate passports, hers under her maiden name, and you will need to carry with you your certified marriage license. When you return from your trip your passports may be revised to show your marital status.

To apply for a passport, you need either a birth certificate, naturalization certificate, or a former passport. You will also need another proof of identification carrying your photograph or description and signature (a driver's license, for example).

The passport office requires two additional photos of you taken within the last 6 months, 2" by 3", on a plain light background (snapshots or photos taken in coin-operated photo booths will not do — best have professional passport pictures made).

Your passport will take two to three weeks to process, and is good for five years. Bon voyage!

Total harmony

A HAPPY MOMENT . . . and a happy harbinger of greater joys together. She has selected Alfred Angelo's lace-patterned gown with subtly belted sleeves and mantilla-inspired headdress. His Seville tuxedo in ice blue is new from After Six. Cut along European lines to flatter young American physiques, this formal and all his accessories reflect a color harmony that makes it the wedding style of the year.

Bridal planning essential

A bride can be calm and radiant on her wedding day if she has planned the preliminaries well and far enough ahead. Every bride-to-be should have a timetable to help her plan for the marriage event with the most convenience and the least worry for everyone, especially for her.

As a guide for the bride, the Jewelry Industry Council presents the following life-saving, bride-saving schedule:

Three Months Before the Big Day

- (1) Decide upon the type of wedding, whether formal or informal.
- (2) Consult with your clergyman to arrange necessary details.
- (3) Make up your guest list, consult with the bridegroom's family.
- (4) Make arrangements for reception, catering and music.
- (5) Choose your bridal party; order your bridal gown and plan what the bridesmaids will wear.
- (6) Select your silver pattern as well as your china and crystal, and register your choices with your jeweler.
- (7) Decide on decor and furnishings for your new home or apartment.

Two Months Until W-Day

- (1) Order your invitations, announcements and personal stationery.
- (2) Buy now what you will need and use for your trousseau.
- (3) Set a date for wedding rehearsal and arrange for rehearsal supper.

One Month to Go

- (1) Address and mail invitations.
- (2) Buy gifts for attendants and bridegroom, and make plans for luncheon for your attendants.
- (3) Try to have your friends give showers now, and then finish your shopping for lingerie, linens and household furnishings.

(4) Check up on outfits for bridal party, and have fittings on your wedding gown. Arrange for photographer to be present at final fitting.

(5) Buy your bridegroom's wedding ring and he should get yours. Go with him to apply for a marriage license, and have the necessary pre-marital medical examinations.

(6) Remind bridegroom to order boutonnieres and flowers for wedding party and for the two mothers.

(7) Consult with caterer about reception menu and cake. Take up the matter of decoration with the florist.

(8) Arrange for accommodations for out-of-town guests.

What type of ceremony should you choose

The ultra-formal wedding, honoring every tradition in the most lavish manner, is elegant.

There are usually many guests invited to the church and reception; the bride chooses four or more attendants; and, of course, the bridal gown is the most formal with long train and cathedral length veil. The entire wedding party follows suit, wearing the most formal attire appropriate for the hour.

A wedding carried out in formal tempo may, however, be kept quite simple in its appointments with only a small gathering at the church.

A formal home wedding involves less expenditure but has the disadvantage of limiting the number of guests. The bride's mother receives guests as they arrive. She takes her place when the bride is ready to make her entrance.

At the home wedding there is no recessional.

SEMI-FORMAL

A semi-formal wedding, whether in a church, chapel, home or club, may be exquisite. Wedding attire for the bride need not be strictly formal.

The traditional long veil is substituted by a short finger-tip or elbow-length veil. If the bride's gown has a short train, or no train at all, the whole tone of the wedding may relax in its formal requirements. If the gown is trainless, aisle canvas may be omitted.

INFORMAL

The informal wedding can carry out as many traditions as seem appropriate. Handwritten invitations should be sent at least two weeks before the wedding.

The bride may wear a short or floor-length formal gown or an afternoon dress or suit with no veil. A simple bouquet and just one attendant is appropriate.

Depending on the church or chapel, the bride may walk down the aisle with her father or enter from the side door at the left of the altar, with the maid of honor following.

The bridegroom enters from the right with the best man. For a home wedding, the simplicity of an informal affair is beautiful.

It is usually followed by a simple reception.

THE LITTLE WEDDING

This is the category that lies somewhere between the Informal and the Semi-formal wedding. A wedding is considered to be little if the guest list does not exceed 75 in number. The invitations, preferably, are hand-written and of course, informally worded.

The bride may look extremely bride-like. That is, she does not have to minimize her attire. She may wear the conventional bridal headdress and veil and long gown with a court train.

If the wedding takes place before 6 p.m., the groom and men in the wedding party can correctly wear the dark business suit and four-in-hand ties that are muted in color.

GARDEN WEDDING

A garden wedding follows much the same pattern of other weddings. It may be simple or as elaborate as the bride desires.

There is usually an improvised altar or bower where the couple stand for the ceremony. A lovely garden reception can follow.

SECOND MARRIAGE

The bride marrying a second time may follow many of the traditional wedding customs. But, simplicity and informality should reign.

The bride should never wear white. Nor should she wear a veil or carry a white bouquet. A suit, dress or long gown without train is appropriate. Even the wedding cake should have tinted frosting.

The ceremony usually includes only relatives and close friends. A large reception following is perfectly acceptable.

Invitations are preferably informal notes. However, formal announcements are in order.

What about music?

Today's bride and groom are just as likely to march down the aisle to the strains of a popular movie theme, like "Love Story", as to the traditional wedding march.

According to the American Music Conference, a not-for-profit music association, young people today want the wedding ceremony to reflect their own tastes and changing life styles.

The piano and organ, long staples in traditional ceremonies, are being joined by the violin, flute, cello and celeste. The celeste is especially popular for marking the arrival of the bride today because of its clear, bell like tones.

One recent ceremony featured a wedding cantata written by the groom and his best man. It was sung by a bridesmaid and usher.

Another young couple, in a very simple ceremony, had the music performed by three friends — one on guitar and two on recorders.

Regardless of what music is selected or which instruments play it, no wedding is complete without music. Throughout history, music has been an important aspect of the universal "harmony of spheres", and today's bride and groom, like those of generations past, have made it an important part of the celebration of their own union.

Why diamond rings?

Have you ever wondered why girls get a diamond engagement ring? Or why they slip on a wedding band at the marriage ceremony? Or why both rings are worn on the fourth finger, left hand?

Wedding rings date back to the cave age, and although the styles of the rings and the reasons for wearing them have changed, the ring tradition is so strong that even today's most liberated bride wears her ring with pride.

Historians credit the caveman with starting the wedding ring tradition by tying his bride's wrist and ankles with braided rushes before dragging her off to seal the marriage pact. Some civilized centuries later, this custom fell away to binding just one finger.

The caveman bound his mate to make sure her spirit was under his control. The ancient Pharaohs had another reason for the ring. They regarded the circular band as a heavenly sign that life, happiness and love have no beginning and no end. As such, it was the perfect marriage symbol.

The first wedding rings were chipped from bone, ivory, flint or amber. In Greek and Roman times, they were hammered out of iron, copper, brass and bronze into decorative designs.

The custom of wearing wedding rings on the fourth finger of the left hand dates to a romantic belief of the Greeks that the "vena Amoris" or vein of love ran directly between the fourth finger and the heart.

Wedding rings, however, were not always given as a symbol of love. Some of the Roman rings signified the woman's duty to preserve her husband's goods and care for the house. These rings were inscribed with little keys, symbolizing the wife's right to enter her husband's storehouse and help herself to a bag of grain or a roll of linen.

Diamond became popular in betrothal rings towards the end of the 15th century, and Mary of Burgundy supposedly was given the first one.

In a letter dated 1477, Archduke Maximilian of Austria was advised to give Mary a "ring set with a diamond" to win her love. (Mary gladly accepted the ring and the couple were married 24 hours later.)

The betrothal ring gained in popularity through the 16th and 17th centuries when gimmel rings (two linked hoops set with precious stones) became the vogue and inspired a delightful practice. At the engagement, the hoops were separated and each party kept one until the wedding day. Then, the two hoops were joined and worn by the bride.

At the turn of the century, the diamond solitaire became the favorite engagement ring, and its importance as the symbol of love has increased ever since. Why? Perhaps because of the endurance of the diamond which is the hardest substance known to man, or perhaps because each diamond is different, as the relationship between two persons is unique.
